Thank you Tara, and the other administrators for these written guidelines. Most are common sense, but it is good to have them written down, to be adhered to.

Thank you Tara for the gentle reminder of the guidelines for this site. We all need to be reminded now and again even though they are mostly common sense as hsmom said .

I really should have posted them months ago but it kept slipping my mind. I know that people had asked for them too. Most just are common sense and common courtesy but you are right it is helpful for people to have posted.
