Still looking for recap writers

Hello SOT members. We are still on the hunt for recap writers. They all do a wonderful job, but the task can be quite taunting and time consuming. There is plenty of room for sharing.

I would even like to go so far as to ask for suggestions as to how we may be able to stagger the duties. For instance, if you happen to know you want to write the recap tomorrow, but not every Tuesday, there must be some way that we can work it out so that the regular Tuesday writer gets some relief. Any ideas?

PM netty and let me know anytime you're available to write recaps.

Just throwing this out there-I Tivo the show just about every day and when I feel like it I go ahead and do a recap.I do not however always find my way to the board everyday. However, if I am needed for an update I do check my email everyday at yahoo. So please feel free to shout out at me that way if I can help.

Thank you so much for taking on the schedule, Netty. So much better to delegate, then type every day, like the first year here! Appreciate all that you do.

I was wondering if someone can do the recap for today's show, Tuesday December 6th. I had VCR problems again and I was at work. Thanks.

Hi all. It seems my boss is intent on booking me 3 -1 every Friday LOL. Anyway, it's making it real tough for me to do a recap. If anyone is interested in filling my spot, please let me know.

I would be happy write a recap. I have been the secretary of several different clubs and had to write the minutes of every meeting. I also have a Tivo, so I can rewind and pause and all that good stuff. I am new to this site, but would love to get more involved since I just move to Tulsa and I don't know a single soul here. I am an excellent typist, just not very good at spelling, haha but I can do a math problem in a flash.

Geez, It would give me something to do besides my whole 4hours of work a week and coloring my hair every color known to mankind.

If who every is in charge is interested just give me a holler.

Ciao

Since these are reruns... recaps on the majority of these shows already exist.

Just flip back several pages to find the original airdate...

Right now it's somewhere about December 10th..

The starting over blog at another site..is a little easier read. You click by month (their archives) and then the months shows are in descending order so you'd have to go to the bottom of the page and scroll upward. After you find the appropriate episode you can get the date that might correspond with the recap here. Recaps are usually alot more detailed than the blog.
