Sorry to hear you are sick, especially when the nice weather is coming.

I'm glad for all of you in that area that you're close over there! Y'all should think of starting a "Meet Up" for SO so you can meet each other! That would be so Cool to hear how your Meet Ups go after you meet!

Did you get all that?!!

I too, like photography but just snapshots is all I've done. The scrapbooking I have bought the supplies!! And have plenty of pics! just getting to do it!

Hope you get feeling better! Let us know what y'all think about starting your own "Meet Up!"

I think we should try to meet at the MOA sometime in September or early October. The longer we wait the busier the mall gets with Christmas shoppers. Sundays probably work best for me, but I can be flexible. I work Saturday mornings and my son has football games on Saturdays, but I could do a Saturday if thats what works. What days work for everyone?

A Sunday afternoon would be wonderful. I am not a football fan, so it wouldnt interfere with anything. I am also flexible for any other time, but it would sure be nice to meet everyone. Friends are so important, and just to be able to meet someone you met on the internet makes it all the more special I think. Lets set a date!

Welcome to the site jjhil. I hope you are enjoying it. I grew up in southern, MN in Blue Earth and I went to Mankato for college, so I am very familiar with the area. I currently live in the north metro. The storms were crazy last week. Lots of trees down in the area. We had no damage in our yard, so we were very fortunate. I hope to see you around the site in the future.

Glad to know that there are those who know where Mankato is... most people look funny at me, unless they follow the vikes. Then they know it from training camp - lol. Looks like I'll be busy this weekend- no MOA for me. I hope you all have a great time and that the new SO women are all we hoped for. I hope this season gives us all the drama and excitement of the first 2. I can't wait to see Allison - hope she's doing well after her surgeries and that this is what she needs to heal emotionally as well as physically. I was disappointed to see the old SO boards gone, but am glad to have found this board - the people here ROCK!!! Talk to you all soon. JJ

And thanks for putting up with my constant talking...It was so nice to spend some time with adults rather than my 2 year old granddaughter!

How was the Coldstone ice cream?

Anyway, I just wanted to thankyou for including me and that really meant alot to me!

Thanks so much! Marybeth

:cheer: I cannot believe the number of us from Minnesota and Wisconsin. I agree Judy, this has hardly been difficult this winter. I still remember the year we had 40 days of subzero temps, no snow, and waterlines were breaking everywhere. We have been spoiled by this. Besides snow beats rain, cold, dreary days anytime. This is what builds character and keeps us from getting bored.
