
Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/01 10:46

It may be just a telephone conversation, but either way, she FINALLY gets to talk with him...and if she hasn't met him yet, I am betting she soon will. OHHHHHHH I am so excited for Cassie. What those adoptive parents did to her was nothing short of WRONG!...and they should be ashamed. And to point fingers at Cassie for being "unstable"??? Sounds like the adoptive mom wasn't so stable herself having had 3 or 4 marriages, one right after the other. If anyone deserves to get back in touch with their biological child..it's Cassie, and I couldn't be happier for her!)

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by tigerlily - 2006/04/01 21:32

do you know if we will get to see the communication they have..it would be so wonderful to see them meet, but i know it needs to be a private moment.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/01 22:14

I don't know hun, they only showed a very small tease of whats to come. They showed Cassie sitting on the couch, with Rhonda to her right, and a few of the HM on her left. Cassie is telling them she picked up the phone and she heard "a certain young mans voice say, Hello, someone from the number has been calling looking for me."

I am sooo excited for her, I cannot wait to hear all about it. I hope it's everything Cassie dreamed it would be, and that they are allowed to bond. It just might happen if his crazy adopted mom will let them be!

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/04/01 22:36

Does that mean she bypassed the original gameplan and did initiate contact herself?

I guess we shall see..

We know the adopted father knew so maybe Cassie had kept in touch with him as well...

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/01 22:55

Not to mention the fact that his once step mother was on the show...he was bound to find out sooner or later! It is quite possible he contacted his father or step-mother and they gave him Cassie's number and told him there was someone that needed to get in touch with him....I do hope Cassie was not calling him though...not because I don't want her to meet her son, but because it is clear that adoptive mother of his is a little bit nuts, not to mention down right mean and vindictive, and I wouldn't want Cassie to take a stupid chance and wind up in jail over it.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by tigerlily - 2006/04/02 05:53

i don't see how Cassie could get into any trouble for contacting her son now that he is 18 years old..it seems like he is an adult now and that stupid adoptive mother doesn't have the right to stop her from contacting him now..i am not putting down ADOPTIVE parents and their rights to keep that information away from their child, just condemning this woman as she doesnt seem to be anymore stable than cassie was since she couldnt stay in a relationship with a man. cassie needs to meet her son and he needs to get a chance to know her..i hope it happens and it ends good for the both of them..

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by tigerlily - 2006/04/02 05:54

duplicate post edited by admin5

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by LadyBird - 2006/04/02 14:33

I'm wondering if she is able to get in touch with her son by the information she gave to the state where the adoption took place--remember that adoption attorney that Cassie spoke with that told her the state would set everything up for her if the son wanted to get in touch too?? Then she filled out all the necessary paperwork, so hopefully this is how they are able to find each other?! Here's hoping for a wonerful meeting, and a lifetime of love for them here on out!!:laugh:

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by AmanFoster - 2006/04/02 21:14

LadyBird,

I'm an adopted child. The thing Cassie registered with is called an adoption registry. This only works if both parties involved in the adoption register. (Some states also allow birth siblings to register.) If all the parties are not registered the only thing the adoptive child can get is what is called Non-Identifying information.

For example - some of the Non-ID info I got.....

Both parents came from middle class families.

Mother - 18, dropped out of highschool, unemployed (but listed her occupation as a student) 5'6". Started receiving prenatal care 6th month of pregnancy.

Father - 26, Employed as a construction worker and attendant at a gas station, 2 children from previous marriage.

In the state I live in, they only give the information that was provided @ the time of the adoption.

Now I'm not quite sure what stuff they would send Cassie unless it was non-ID info on the adoptive family.

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by canadianFan - 2006/04/03 09:18

:woohoo: :woohoo: i am so happy for Cassie she really deserves to meet her son wether in perosn or on the phone. SHE really has come a long way from the very first time she walked inthe SO house. I am so happy ofr her i could just cry.

:(:(

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by Laurell28 - 2006/04/03 12:19

I really hope that Cassie and her son finally meet at some point in time. That being said, we only have one side of the story regarding the adoptive mother. It may have freaked her out that a TV show wanted to make public something she felt should be private. I always felt that Cassie was encouraged to do what could be borderline stalking when she was in the house last year. Something may have happened between the adoptive mother and Cassie that made her cut off contact. Maybe the adoptive mother didnt think her son was emotionally ready for the meeting. Maybe she is psycho. We dont know her side of the story.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by LadyBird - 2006/04/03 13:39

AMANFOSTER:

Thanks. I just hope in any case, for the sake of both Cassie and her son, that they are able to finally meet. I also hope now that her son is of legal age, he can make up his own mind (if he does in fact even know the truth about his adoption). My wishes and luck go out to the both of them.

That adoption registry sounds like a good thing too.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by judy - 2006/04/04 03:15

I too am distressed over how the adoptive mother has been treated. Last season Cassie talked about how she would have contact with the family while she was drunk. I imagine the decision was made then to have no more contact with her, and rightly so.

We only have Cassies side of the story so can not really judge the mothers actions.

I too agree that last year it was borderline stalking on Cassies and SO's part.

Can you imagine having your life aired on TV without your permission?

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by allthetime - 2006/04/04 09:08

judy wrote:

I too am distressed over how the adoptive mother has been treated. Last season Cassie talked about how she would have contact with the family while she was drunk. I imagine the decision was made then to have no more contact with her, and rightly so.

We only have Cassies side of the story so can not really judge the mothers actions.

I too agree that last year it was borderline stalking on Cassies and SO's part.

Can you imagine having your life aired on TV without your permission?

I completely agree with you. What a horrible thing to have happen to your family. It is very irresponsible on SO's part to keep pushing Cassie to find him and holding it like a carrot out in front of her. When she came BACK on the show I think she really thought they had worked it out for her to meet him. That's immoral - all done for ratings. I think it would not be amiss for the adoptive mother to sue SO over this. This is an example of reality t.v. going too far. When someone adopts a child they have a reasonable expectation to live as normal a life as possible -- and there is most likely some anxiety that the birth parents will at some point cause trouble, which is a shame in and of itself. To now have to be worried that some TV SHOW will use their clout and money to come after you just so they can have a Kleenex moment is beyond belief. I've said it before and I'll say it again, I'm about to kick this show to the curb! :unsure:

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by Debby - 2006/04/04 12:59

After reading some of these posts, I wonder if we watched the same show? SO in no way tried to intrude on the adoptive family and son with cameras. The information was provided to the family confidentially. Their identify was never disclosed by the show.

I thought the attempts to confirm that the son knew he was adopted were handled very appropriately. Do you remember a season or 2 ago? I think the HG was named Susan and SO located her father that she had never met. SO explained who Susan was and that she wanted to meet him. He agreed. SO gave him the option to meet Susan on or off camera. He initaly chose off camera, then later he went on camera. Those of you with better memories correct me if I'm off on any fact.

Cassie's son may never choose to have a relationship with her, but if that is his decision and not his adoptive mother's, then so be it. It is an individual decision. He would be lucky if he did get to know her.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by DrWho - 2006/04/07 14:55

Cassie would never settle for one meeting. She's obsessive and manipulative.

And just how did she manage to get 3 months free rent after she was given finances to attend the nursing school of her choice? And.....correct me if I'm wrong....wasn't she given money to start her own business?

Cassie needs to find herself before she finds her son.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by LadyBird - 2006/04/07 15:13

I might possibly agree that Cassie is obsessive, but, she is about as manipulative as a fly, in my opinion. I think if we were to put ourselves in her shoes, we just might be the same way, given we thought the adoption was "open".

Yea, I was pretty shocked too when she left the house yet again w/another make-over, AND rent for 3 months. I too thought she was given monies to start a new business, and go to school. I guess she probably could use all the help she can get at this point.

I do like Cassie, and I wish her all the best. I think she has come a long way from when we first saw her.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by DrWho - 2006/04/07 15:45

I was adopted into an entire family of ETOH abusers (on both sides). I see traits in Cassie that are easily discernable after living and dealing so long with them.

I actually like Cassie; however, those traits will always exist unless she seeks help in overcoming them.

I also think she can be an excellent friend to her son...I just hope that if she meets him soon, she's prepared for it.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/08 01:37

I am adopted too. When I petitioned the court to have my records opened due to health reasons, I had to have a guardian ad litem contact my birth parents first...to make sure I could have contact. While the boy is 18...he is still living with mommy (who BTW cannot be a gem since she has been married 5 times now) Not only that, but who ever said Cassie called when she was drunk? All I heard was that the adoptive mom blamed Cassie for the boys problems. What those people did was WRONG...they made a promise to Cassie that she could see the boy, get pictures ect...yet they moved away as soon as they got that baby in their arms, and she has moved from man to man ever since. Anyway, even though the boy is 18, he still lives with his adoptive mom, therefore she can't call or write because his adoptive mom has put a restraining order on Cassie. Cassie would have to wait till he moved out...and once that happens, she can call him, or even show up on his doorstep. As far as Cassie being manipulative, are you kidding me...that woman has been very patient....alot more than I would have been. I admire her for that. I would have showed up at his school, or waited a few doors down from his home until I saw him leave by himself...I would have done something...I know what it's like to miss a part of you. As far as I am concerned that biotch of an adoptive mom needs to be biotch slapped. I bet you naything she never planned on telling him he was even adopted....what a deceitful snatch!

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by judy - 2006/04/09 06:47

sahm2b wrote:

As far as I am concerned that biotch of an adoptive mom needs to be biotch slapped. I bet you naything she never planned on telling him he was even adopted....what a deceitful snatch!

sahm2b I have noticed other posts of yours that were negative and nasty as well. Not sure where you are coming from. We know nothing of the adoptive mother except for what Cassie has said.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/09 10:29

So I am nasty huh..are you saying I am nasty all the time??? I am nasty when MY opinion calls for it, and very nice when MY opinion calls for it...ignore my posts if it bothers you that much...as far as JUST having Cassie's viewpoint...WRONG...did you miss the episode when the ex-wife of his father showed up and sat down for a talk with her and Rhonda?...not to mention the phone calls with the ex step-mom and his father? Cassie was told TWICE not to go anywhere near her alone....No...we don't just have Cassie's side of the story...the woman is a biotch...period, and I feel so sorry for the boy having a new daddy 5 times in his life. If you ask me, Cassie could have done a better job with the boy than her! Also...get your fact straight BEFORE you start insulting others.

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/09 10:30

duplicate post edited by admin5

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by scw23 - 2006/04/09 11:02

you are certainly entitled to your opinions sahm2b.

but, putting an 'o' in the middle of b*tch doesn't make it any better to call someone that, especially in light of the forum guidelines. and 'snatch'? i know what that means and it's no better than calling someone every women's favourite c-word.:unsure:

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by judy - 2006/04/09 14:24

I stand by my comments. Until Cassies sons adoptive mother can speak for herself it is nasty to call her names like you have. Those are nasty to call anyone at anytime!

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by sahm2b - 2006/04/10 05:26

scw2...Thank you so much or poining out the guidelines for me. I saw that someone else had used the adjective "biotch" as well, so asumed it was acetable, but I shouldn't have..so ty AGAIN FOR POINTING THAT OUT TO ME. I HAVE SINCE LOOKED OVER THE SITE RULES EVEN A LITTLE BETTER.

AS FAR AS YOU JUDY...I STAND BY MY COMMENTS AS WELL...IF YOU THINK I AM GOING TO BE SENSITIVE TO YOUR POOR LITTLE EGO...THINK AGAIN..WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE...THE NASTY POLICE? IS IT YOUR JOB TO SIT ON HERE SEARCHING 24 /7, POINTING OUT, COMPLAINING, AND CALLING OUT THOSE WHO YOU CONSIDER TO BE NASTY COMMENTS? APPARETNLY YOU TOO NEED TO RE-READ SOME GUIDLINES. AS THE SITE SAYS ON THE FIRST PAGE..YOU DON'T HAVE TO AGREE, BUT YOU CAN EITHER NOT READ MY POSTS, OR READ THEM AND QUIT YOUR COMPLAINING ABOUT MY SO CALLED "NASTYNESS." STATE YOUR OPINIONS ABOUT THE SHOWS, BUT YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO ATTACK AOTHER MEMBER,MAKE PERSONAL COMMENTS ABOUT THE MEMBERS ON THIS SITE. AND WHILE IDO HAVE A LIFE, I WOULD BE HAPP. KAVE A GREAT WEEK ALL1Y TO DEBATE THIS ISSUE JUDY, IN MY FREE TIME. HAVE A GREAT WEEK ALL!

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by piper - 2006/04/10 19:22

This site does not allow us to demean either the HGs on the show, in a nasty manner, nor each other. If it does continue, the ADMINS will lock the subject and they can even ban ppl if they continue..

Just a FYI.

MaryBeth

=====

Re:Cassie FINALLY meets her son...

Posted by netty - 2006/04/10 19:59

This thread locked due to complaints.

=====