Kelly graduates?????? Hard to believe. Amazing in fact. She has done so little and remains so mean and angry.

That is exactly what I was thinking.

Me three. The improvement we see is in response to specific situations that are guided by an LC - and in front of an LC. When left to her own devices I don;t see a change in the underlying anger. But at least she knows what others see in her now - the "punisher" as Rhonda put it. Maybe she can work on it from the outside in, which is the way they seem to be approaching the issue with her sometimes.

Me 4.

Kelly remains hostile, defensive and unable to truly own her behavior. She simply agrees and says, "... 'cuz now I know how..."

I think she's being moved along precisely because she's not making much progress and is still way too defensive.

Just my $.02...

Wow I've seen quite a bit of change with Kelly. Her whole face looks softer most of the time (there are still times in some situations she looks harsh, but I am not sure that is because she is pissed off, but just looks that way) I thought it was really a sign of some change the way she consoled Jodi on the balcony. Her apologies I felt were sincere. I think she is handling the feeling of Niambi not liking her rather well. There are more times that I just can't think of right now, but I do think she has changed SOME...she has made some progress since the day she walked into the house.

What! Kelly is graduating? How can that be. Are they doing this to really upset Jodi?

pjdonnellan,

Do you think Kelly has shown any progress? Do you feel she is not ready to graduate and if so what would you like to see from her?

(I read your post that nobody responds to you...lol, I've felt like that before.;))

Actually...I think Kelly has made progress. When she and Jodi were talking and Kelly broke down the other day in group...I knew she had seen something. She really impressed me that day by admitting that she and Jodi "trigger" each other and that she was now able to show compassion. That was big, IMO.

I have not really liked Kelly at all until now. After seeing that and seeing her with her family today, I do think she's made progress...just my opinion.

THAT is so funny! I'll bet Jodi thinks so. :lol: It's like, OMG, they just hugged and just reached an understanding and now Kelly is leaving too? I don't think I even want to see how Jodi may react. :ohmy:
