When the show first aired here in Michigan, it was on TLC and only TLC. Then the local channels picked it up in season 2. Just my 2 cents worth on the matter.

I remember TLC air the 1st season. That would be great place to show seasons 1-3.

My local NBC affilaite aired it from the get go. I only watched the first episode or two. Didn't get interested until midway through Season 1's summer reruns.

Perhaps we could bombard TLC on the web and plug it so we can still view our SO!

It's a little late to try to make any impact on this fall's schedule.

Each season, Starting Over started production in late June/early July and taped until February. And the flurry of initial recruiting for housemates for the next season typically was very heavy in October/November and again in January/February...

With that in mind, perhaps it might have some effect on fall 2007's schedule.
