

---

She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by fabkroert - 2006/04/03 08:42

---

This can't be true. What has she done to graduate? She was soooo annoying when she was in the house and she blatantly defied Rhonda on different occasions.

I'm sorry, but being a jobless 40-year-old that throws parties doesn't necessarily deserve a reward. This is a complete joke and I am too through with Rhonda and her horrible coaching!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by msjones - 2006/04/03 09:32

---

I'm just happy that she's gone.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ymimad - 2006/04/03 10:19

---

you know one thing about raising kids is you gotta be consistent and you gotta mean what you say. if you say, no cookies before dinner, you cant give them a cookie a minute later. if you say, do that, (whatever) and you are grounded, if they then do it,you must ground them. for petey sakes there has been no consistency with lisa. 2 Cs is supposed to mean leaving the house. a D is you are gone too. so why when lisa got a D, was she just sent to the basement? in her little girl mind, she "got away with it"...and she has continued to get away with it. they might as well just forget the reviews. they are meaningless because if lisa was not kicked out, no one ever should be. and to let her graduate? i am beyond understanding this logic.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by startingoverfan - 2006/04/03 10:25

---

i totally agree with u ms.jones i didn't like lisa at all. and i'm glad that she's gone.:)

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Mercredi - 2006/04/03 10:25

---

fabkroert wrote:

I am too through with Rhonda and her horrible coaching!

You and me both.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Vinesa - 2006/04/03 10:51

---

I am to the point where I almost want to stop watching the show. I can not believe that Lisa is getting away with it.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by kaptin_karma - 2006/04/03 12:47

---

---

i didn't think she could do it. i never observed a more clueless person before. back after her 30 day leave, i do not see the sleepy face she use to wear when answering for herself. she appears to be present now, instead of hopelessly lost in a lie.

the only one you have to live with is yourself.

bravo, lisa! you are free!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/04/03 12:59

---

fabkroert wrote:

This can't be true. What has she done to graduate? Pulled the wool over Dumb-da's eyes, obviously.

She was soooo annoying when she was in the house and she blatantly defied Rhonda on different occasions.Only Dumb-da was too stupid to realize it.

I'm sorry, but being a jobless 40-year-old that throws parties doesn't necessarily deserve a reward. This is a complete joke and I am too through with Rhonda and her horrible coaching!! wonder what kind of crap I could put over on Dumb-da.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by honeyb - 2006/04/03 13:09

---

I think the coaches gave Lisa something to accomplish that was soooo simple that any any 16 year old could do, but, that is about all she is capable of! I think if she had really tried when she was in college, she could have been really good at being a travel agent or some kind of advisor on where the best places to visit and stay at would have been a good career for her. Now she is 41 years old, and working a minimum wage job, and still trying to fit in with her rich friends that are probably on the same level as she is. I really hope she can take the skills and tools she has learned at the house and do a complete turn around. Lisa is a very pretty, personalble woman who could use her skills in many constructive ways. She just needs the iniative to do this. The coaches had to graduate her, she was going down in starting over history as the only girl not completing the course. They had to give her something really easy to get her to do it!! (sorry about the spelling)

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by judy - 2006/04/03 13:36

---

Yes indeed it is a joke - a joke on all loyal SO viewers. The show does not deserve to continue as it has completely lost whatever little integrity it has left. As a previous poster said you do not tell your kid they can not have a cookie and give them one a minute later.

This show has not only given Lisa cookies but they have rewarded her for being dishonest and reprehensible. Shame on SO!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Nshvlljenn - 2006/04/03 13:39

---

I did end up watching it even though I said I would not watch today. I found the speech Rhonda gave to be quite comical. The focus seemed to be on what Lisa DIDN'T accomplish, as opposed to what she DID accomplish. I can't believe they let her graduate and I am glad there was NO party to celebrate this disaster. Good riddance to BAD rubbish!!!!!! Also, the only person who spoke was Jill...?? Whatever, at least she is GONE!!!!!! She recieved too damn much for doing little of nothing...

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by peace - 2006/04/03 13:48

---

SO really tried to put a good face on it all... but it just wasn't convincing.

I had hoped we'd at least see some reality and greatfullness in Lisa's speech, but it wasn't there. How about some thanks to the coaches, Stan and your fellow HG's who stood by you? Nada.

All I can think of is Sommer, who was sent away for chatting to production staff...and now this with Lisa - she gets to graduate? Something stinks really bad.

---

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/04/03 13:51

---

Since noone but the SOH could find any reason to allow Lisa to graduate, why did they do it?

Is it possible to purchase a graduation?

---

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/04/03 13:53

---

Debby wrote:

Since noone but the SOH could find any reason to allow Lisa to graduate, why did they do it?

Is it possible to purchase a graduation?

Must be.

---

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by peace - 2006/04/03 13:57

---

Debby wrote:

Since noone but the SOH could find any reason to allow Lisa to graduate, why did they do it?

Is it possible to purchase a graduation?

Who knows. I think there will be tons of folks trying to come up with a reasonable explanation as to why she graduated because it seems so clear that she didn't earn it.

---

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Hooked - 2006/04/03 21:28

---

I made a choice today. I made a choice for the betterment of my life and time and I stuck by my commitment. I watched the show until the halfway point when Lisa walked down the steps and then triumphantly shut the stupid thing off. I have to admit I wavered when Rhonda put on her no-nonsense face (reserved only for when exasperated with Lisa's antics) and asked Lisa if she was lying or being phony. Lisa looked absolutely so terrified that I was certain everyone could see she was FULL OF IT. Then Rhonda let her off the hook...again!

So, I then tuned into What Not to Wear on TLC where the woman's tears of joy referring to her life/wardrobe makeover were more believable than that pathetic liar Lisa's tears. Thanks SO for turning me on to a new show! If it was ratings they were after with Lisa, it seems they made all of us loyal viewers sick instead. Puh-lease. Starting over my a--. Lisa's got the skills, brains and "charm" of Paris Hilton. Too bad Daddy's nickel doesn't go as far!!!

---

Lisa, you're a moron and you don't fool ANYBODY. Good luck on getting your life together.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Mystique - 2006/04/04 07:10

---

Just one thing to say.. I'm disappointed in the show for graduating someone that didn't earn it, didn't work for it like all the others have to, didn't deserve it, didn't care enough about the process to do herself a favor and IMO didn't change. I think she lied, as usual Lisa does, about Internet Man (Jill when asked about if she was really done with him could only say "well..." that says it all) and Rhonda didn't find out where she was for so long after she left the house to call her on it or verify with Jill or someone else she talked to that I'm sure she discussed Internet Man with either. Rhonda, what happened to the tennis lessons? When did painting her room become one of the backbones? Since thats what she did you just accepted it? And wouldn't get a job mean.. get one that you'll keep for more than a couple of weeks? She quit all her other jobs before so what's different about the clothes clerk job since she apparently didn't keep that either?!

Oh well.. I think the last laugh was on Lisa getting a trophy for 'growing up'. Which is what the engravement was.. I had to laugh at that! I wonder what people will say when she shows her trophy? You got a trophy for growing up? Ah.. nice?! lol (ok) lol

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Zeph - 2006/04/04 09:04

---

Lisa's whole experience in SO of doing just what SHE wanted whenever SHE wanted with no consequences is one of the reasons SO probably won't be back for another season. There is no integrity left. When she was caught red handed by Rhonda e-mailing Mr. I (which was supposedly forbidden) she should have been asked to leave on the spot. Instead she was allowed to throw a party and insult her housemates while preparing for it. And since when does making dinner for a few people (which is something most people do every day) a reason for a graduation celebration?

Do they think the viewers are that stupid or do they just not care anymore? So sad SO.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by peace - 2006/04/04 09:18

---

Mystique wrote:

Oh well.. I think the last laugh was on Lisa getting a trophy for 'growing up'. Which is what the engravement was.. I had to laugh at that! I wonder what people will say when she shows her trophy? You got a trophy for growing up? Ah.. nice?! lol (ok) lol

LOL A trophy for growing up, making dinner and getting a job...

...in that case

How many here (raise your hands) are waiting for their SO Trophy ??? (as Rhonda puts it - there are so few of these floating around in North America...hmmm time to mint a few more, bub) :woohoo: :laugh:

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/04/04 11:30

---

I tape SO every day to save, in case there is no next season. Anyway, as I was adjusting the tape to record from yesterday's show, I suddenly stopped and thought, "Maybe I should just record over Lisa's graduation." I mean the only other thing on yesterday's program is Jodi being grouchy. But then I thought of the funniest part of the graduation. Dr. Stan saying, that he thought his career was over when he counseled with Lisa in a pink baby dress. That struck me as funny. I decided to keep the recording for that reason only.

---

Has anyone ever posted that they think Lisa deserved to graduate? Just curious.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Sistine - 2006/04/04 13:38

---

Some of these posts seem a bit harsh. Maybe the very thing Lisa needed was to graduate. Maybe that accomplishment will empower her to move on with her life.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/04/04 13:51

---

Debby wrote:

Has anyone ever posted that they think Lisa deserved to graduate? Just curious.

If anyone has, it was probably none other than Lisa herself.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/04/04 14:47

---

turtle wrote:

Debby wrote:

Has anyone ever posted that they think Lisa deserved to graduate? Just curious.

If anyone has, it was probably none other than Lisa herself.

Turtle, there's one thing about post on Lisa 1; I always get quite a laugh. I must admit that there are times when I think of how Lisa would feel if she checked this message board and read about herself. Can you imagine how painful that would be.....nah, she would just blow it off.

Who knows, maybe the girl will surprise us all by really getting real and then they can bring her back to the house for an update. Just kidding. ha ha.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by LAB - 2006/04/04 18:28

---

Did I miss it, or did she only get "roses" and no "golden statue??" If she got it, they didn't show her getting it? What was her gift?? (Other than the new outfit/hair??)

Her graduation reminded me of college graduation, where the "bottom" of the grade-point average, were marched at the end of the line. No fancy sashes.

It was a sham, so disappointed.:side:

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Mystique - 2006/04/04 20:20

---

---

LAB wrote:

Did I miss it, or did she only get "roses" and no "golden statue???" If she got it, they didn't show her getting it? What was her gift?? (Other than the new outfit/hair??)

Her graduation reminded me of college graduation, where the "bottom" of the grade-point average, were marched at the end of the line. No fancy sashes.

It was a sham, so disappointed.:side:

She did receive a statue that said was for "growing up" which I mentioned before and had a good laugh at that engraving lol She received a dining room set complete with buffet weeee?

---

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by valtina - 2006/04/04 23:01

---

A dining room set? Are we really to believe that Lisa is now to become a Domestic Goddess?

---

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Serena - 2006/04/04 23:31

---

valtina wrote:

A dining room set? Are we really to believe that Lisa is now to become a Domestic Goddess?

I'd bet even Lisa herself would have good laugh at that! :P

---

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Mystique - 2006/04/05 01:04

---

peace wrote:

Mystique wrote:

Oh well.. I think the last laugh was on Lisa getting a trophy for 'growing up'. Which is what the engravement was.. I had to laugh at that! I wonder what people will say when she shows her trophy? You got a trophy for growing up? Ah.. nice?! lol (ok) lol

LOL A trophy for growing up, making dinner and getting a job...

...in that case

How many here (raise your hands) are waiting for their SO Trophy ??? (as Rhonda puts it - there are so few of these floating around in North America...hmmm time to mint a few more, bub) :woohoo: :laugh:

LMAO! yes Peace you're right.. for growing up and making a dinner I think everyone on this site deserves a "Lisa" trophy?! lol thanks for the laugh! :) Matter of fact I'd venture to guess that most of us have accomplished much more than she has even attempted! Hell, we can make our own bed and set our own alarm clocks too! ;)

---

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Serena - 2006/04/05 01:10

---

So, is that a trophy for maturity? Or atrophy of maturity? :P

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Serena - 2006/04/05 01:10

---

So, is that a trophy for maturity? Or atrophy of maturity? :P

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/04/05 05:01

---

Serena wrote:

So, is that a trophy for maturity? Or atrophy of maturity? :P

What wit! :laugh: :laugh:

Great play on words!

What's done is done... I thought one could perceive the graduation embarrassing enough. Once she saw her entire story play out on tv, I am sure even she will be mortified! But Jill did say her story was edited badly. But that too, could be a play on words. Her housemates did seem to like her when she wasn't raving lunatic.. (under stress). Like someone mentioned, the statuette, isn't one she is actually going to be whipping out to show off.. Rather embarrassing to get a trophy for 'growing up'.

But maybe TJ's confessional was scripted (since that has been implied happens on occasion by Jill). TJ saying that the graduation HOPEFULLY will propell her forward to continue the process.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Hooked - 2006/04/05 08:46

---

Did TJ really say Lisa needed to graduate to feel good about herself? Lol! Graduation-yet another free cookie for Lisa to nibble on while waiting for the next humiliating thing coming out of Mr. Internet's mouth.

Sad!

Even sadder? Lisa's parting gift. Why give the woman more stuff to fill that dungeon-esque apartment when her life is empty? Rhonda might as well have given her a package of baby t-shirts. She's GOT those, Rhonda, babe. What the woman needs is a full-time job or a great paying part-time job and a little responsibility. Maybe they should have handed her a newborn. Huh? Just to see how grown-up she is? :woohoo:

Why does the thought of Lisa lugging around a baby make me shudder?

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/04/05 21:52

---

IMO...Lisa was graduated for the "shows sake"...a sort of "cliff hanger/teaser/flller" sort of thing....not even sure that it actually aired in some areas....bumped for some BIG ball game...probably planned that way too. I'm getting tired of all the "teasers"...they rarely amount to much...IMO....Grrrrrr!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by mellabella - 2006/07/11 13:37

---

---

Okay, she is graduating from the house, but come on life does not work like the house. Let's face it people, life is dog-eat-dog world. She is living in a state of denial and will not last long. How many parties can she throw, when she starts needing to pay off the hors d'oeuvres. She really needs to grow up, come on a 40 year old "bar-fly" only survives for so long. I heard that in Japan they have hostess girls, where they sit at a table and pour alcohol for men, who pay bucks to sit with a foreigner. She smiles, pours, says some sweet, dumb thing and gets a few yen. She is skinny, so she'll look good in that type of dress and with make-up she can cover those brown spots on her face, and come on I believe she is no virgin. Go for it girl !!!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/07/11 17:13

---

Yes, it's a dog eat dog world. And, Lisa'a wearing milkbone panties!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/07/13 12:31

---

turtle wrote:

Yes, it's a dog eat dog world. And, Lisa'a wearing milkbone panties!

Too funny. We all should be so lucky.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by stacia - 2006/07/14 23:10

---

She was fake. Anytime she did a task she got all upset when it wasn't working. Not because she couldn't do it, but she was upset because she thought she would get kicked it. Like when she called Rhonda cryign about selling the necklaces. She said she needed help because she htought she would get kicked out. She didn't want help so she could finish it and get some guidance. She wanted help so she could complete it so she wouldn't get kicked out. Frankly, i thought the necklace selling task was dumb.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/07/17 17:36

---

I thought all of Lisa's assignments were dumb. But, Rhonda probably didn't know what else to do with her. The producers probably wouldn't let the LC's kick Lisa out. No matter how badly she violated the "integrity" of the SOH. I think the LC's have slowly been losing control of the show since its inception. Especially with its move. From Chicago. To Hollywood.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/07/17 23:39

---

I happen to agree that all of Lisa's assignments were dumb....but they weren't her idea!! They would have tried the patience of a saint,IMO. Small wonder she did not get a lot out of the SO experience.:blink:

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/07/19 19:18

---

---

Got a kick out of Lisa flirting today! She does not need any coaching there, does she? lol! I always wondered what would happen if a woman "turned the tables" on a construction crew!!:laugh:
Now we know that they are probably "all cattle and no hat," as ol' Dr. Phil might say!!:P
Naughty, naughty, Lisa...but you gave me my chuckle for the day!

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/07/19 19:29

---

LOL! I think that was supposed to be ..."All hat and no cattle!"
(Mentalpause!):P

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Boppler - 2006/07/19 23:04

---

Sure would hate to have her on any team that had to get something accomplished. I cannot believe that she thinks her role should be "inspiring" other people to do work - she's not only lazy, she's delusional.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by turtle - 2006/07/20 16:43

---

And, she calls Jill lazy! At least Jill makes her own bed.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/07/20 18:03

---

Well, Jill said it straight out...that she's not into housework!!!
Don't think either one of them are into the domestic thang, lol!:P

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/07/20 20:14

---

Yeah, It was pretty funny. I mean if it had come from anybody else.. ??? Although, it's the type of issue you address diplomatically during normal household chores time.. and not as a hit and run like Lisa tried to do. Lisa trying to call someone else lazy.. was just comical. No wonder noone wanted to back her up even if they all agreed in point about the chores around the house. It's hypocritical.. Allison making Lisa's bed, Lisa demanding her hg's to help her with past (and future) assignments..

What did Jill say about cleaning up after her the night before because Lisa was passed out???? Did I hear that right? ( I seriously might have just misheard it..and want to be set straight..)

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ymimad - 2006/07/21 10:13

---

I am so irritated with Lisa, I cant believe she is 40. she dresses like she thinks she is 12. Lisa needs to cover herself more and dress like a grown woman. but well, she is still a child in her mind isnt she.
I thot her assignments were hard to do, but realis that they were trying to teach her that she can do things.

---

I noticed during the exercise when they were to compliment and criticise each other, Lisa could give criticism but got all upset when she was criticised. It usually is hard for all of us to be told what someone doesn't like about us. Lisa reacted like it was okay for everyone else to receive a criticism, but not her. Like she was above all that.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by happygirl - 2006/07/21 11:33

---

Lisa was already mad at TJ, I think she got mad at Jill because of her comments about Allison.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Boppler - 2006/08/05 11:05

---

Good grief.

:sick: She should have been dumped - hard.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/08/07 12:06

---

The more I think about it, the more appalled I am. What self-respecting grown woman, who is physically able to do so, allows another person to make her bed every day? And to top it off laughs about it as if it's cute.

I know, I know, one may ask what kind of woman volunteers to make the bed of another grown woman. I can answer that one. One who wants a clean and tidy room and knows she is living with a slob. Doesn't make it right, but I can kinda understand that more than the lazy bones position.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Debby - 2006/08/07 12:12

---

When I was in my first year of college, I had a slob roommate (dorm). She would never do her laundry. It would pile up all over the floor, dirty and smelly. She would leave plates of food and drink, everywhere. The room was small, so if I wanted any sense of relief from the mess and smell, I had to clean it up. I didn't have to do it, but I was too embarrassed to have guests to my room without doing something. I voiced my feelings about it many times, but she was a spoiled brat who never had any responsibility at home. She could have cared less about anything other than partying and drinking. She would just laugh and say that she was sorry and she would try to do better. She never did. That was my last year in the dorm, thank God.

I guess I so have some Allison traits.

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/08/14 18:56

---

Well, apropos of nothing in the above posts...except graduating...

I enjoyed seeing Lisa's graduation again! I almost never make comments about makeovers, or appearance in general...but I liked Lisa's lovely thick hair just the way it was!!!! (OK, maybe a little trim was in order!!) Once again, at graduation, you see the affection that is not always evident on "the show." These women do bond and achieve a level of intimacy only made possible by living in "close quarters." I always get the feeling that we miss the "best stuff!" We always "make allowances" for our friends, don't we? Jill's comments made that clear. I do think that they would always be glad to run into one another in the future, having shared this unique experience. All the best, Lisa!

---

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Nadia - 2006/08/14 19:23

---

Debby wrote:

When I was in my first year of college, I had a slob roommate (dorm). She would never do her laundry. It would pile up all over the floor, dirty and smelly. She would leave plates of food and drink, everywhere. The room was small, so if I wanted any sense of relief from the mess and smell, I had to clean it up. I didn't have to do it, but, I was too embarrassed to have guest to my room without doing something. I voiced my feelings about it many times, but, she was a spoiled brat who never had any responsibility at home. She could have cared less about anything other than partying and drinking. She would just laugh and say that she was sorry and she would try to do better. She never did. That was my last year in the dorm, thank God.

I guess I so have some Allison traits.

Hey Debby...

Reading your post I was kinda laughing and then disgusted. I could not live with someone like that. I would have picked up her smelly old laundry (with gloves and a laundry peg for my nose) put her clothes in a garbage bag and set it on her side.

There are some ppl out there that just don't care and are not embarrassed at all they have the no care free attitude...sure sometimes is a great attitude to have but in this case!! Well she should have had some respect for you and the guest that came over - brat or no brat! She should have taken the cob webs out of her head.

It was nice to see Lisa graduating; does anyone recall what her graduation gift was?

Hey Debby,

Reading your post I was laughing and then disgusted. I could not live with someone like that. I would have picked up her smelly old laundry (with gloves and a laundry peg for my nose) put her clothes in a garbage bag and set it on her side.

There are some ppl out there that just don't care and are not embarrassed at all they have the no care free attitude...sure sometimes is a great attitude to have but in this case!! Well she should have had some respect for you and the guest that came over - brat or no brat! She should have taken the cob webs out of her head.

Boppler wrote: Good grief.

:sick: She should have been dumped - hard.

:laugh: :ohmy: :P

---

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Parfie - 2006/08/15 14:36

---

Hi there!

I'm new here, and starting watching SO this 're-run' season!

To answer the previous poster's question about what Lisa got for her Grad gift.. OMG, she was given 'crap' to what the others were, so in my opinion, her Grad gift was.....

A Dining Room Set and Chairs with a China Hutch! As Rhonda said, the gift we felt would help you move forward in your new life is..... blah blah!! I just thought OMG yes, catching that Billionaire with a great new dining table and chairs.. no classes, NADA..

Just kinda made me go whoa, it's not at all what the other girls got, but she didn't deserve a fraction of what they got either, they worked hard!

---

I guess I'm sorry to have watched so late, I love the show, and seems as though I will lose it. :( Anyway, take care ladies! Best Wishes :)

=====

Re:She\'s graduating? Is this a joke??

Posted by Nadia - 2006/08/16 18:25

---

Hi Parfie,
Welcome aboard and thanks for the reply about Lisa's Gift. :)

Hope to see you around the boards. :cheer:

=====