
Nevada Barr

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/08/18 17:36

Hi y'all!!!

I know, I know, I originally started off saying I was reading the Poisonwood Bible.....but I had a really hard time getting into it and don't know that I'm ready to deal with similar religious hypocrisy that I grew up on. Maybe it'll make a good winter read while the kids are working on their schooling!!

ANYway.....

I picked up a mystery by the author Nevada Barr. I really enjoyed it and now am starting at the beginning. In a nutshell, she's a National Parks Ranger with Law Enforcement experience and solves murders and other crimes that happen in the National Parks. I'm only on my second book, and some of the murder descriptions are quite gory and there is some strong language.....but I am enthralled with the detective work and storylines about the National Parks.

Anyone else read any of these?????

Re:Nevada Barr

Posted by piper - 2006/08/18 19:44

grizzlys4 wrote:

Hi y'all!!!

I know, I know, I originally started off saying I was reading the Poisonwood Bible.....but I had a really hard time getting into it and don't know that I'm ready to deal with similar religious hypocrisy.....

Keep pushin on, it gets REALLY good, especially when ya see all that hypocrisy blown to bits! That's what kept me from reading it all a couple of times, but I bit the bullet, and loved it, you will too, if this is bothering ya now. Just wait, you'll get yer reward. :evil: :)

pp

Re:Nevada Barr

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/08/18 20:40

Thank you dear Princess P!!!

I think I will try to tackle it again soon. I'll keep ya posted!

Re:Nevada Barr

Posted by dglasgow - 2008/08/28 01:40

Actually i didn't read the poison wood Bible but i have heard a lot about the Bible and i know themes and morals of the stories in the bible.

.....
Duke Glasgow

Nevada Alcohol Addiction Treatment
