
The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Nadia - 2006/08/30 22:15

Upcoming TV Talk Show for Fall 2006

Chef Rachael Ray from the Food Network cable channel will host her own celebrity talk show called The Rachael Ray Show.

Rachael Ray (REPLACING TONY DANZA) :ohmy:

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/08/31 00:38

I'm not sure how this is going to work out. But I really DO love watching Rachael's shows on Food Network. So, I will certainly give her talk show a try! Do we have a premier date yet??

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Nadia - 2006/09/08 23:25

There may be one Grizz... but I'm not sure what that date is... if and when I do find out or if anyone else knows ???

I'll be sure to post it for you :)

:)

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by liir - 2006/09/09 23:28

she'll be coming on the same time as ellen and i won't miss ellen for ANYTHING!!!!!!!

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/09/10 03:42

I think that the Rachael Ray Show is supposed to premier the week of Sept. 18. I'm definitely going to be watching it to begin with.....I really like her on her Food Network shows!

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by mazzy - 2006/09/10 09:13

I Like Rachael Ray... I'm planning to check out her new show too.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/09/11 00:05

I'm soooooooooooooooooooooo bummed!!! Just found out that Colorado Springs will not be carrying her show.....:(And, because we live in an area where we receive local channels, we cannot get alternate networks on our directv.

BUMMMMMMMER!!!!!!!!!!

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/18 09:52

It's on now... (first show)... I am very disappointed. I think she is probably nervous which doesn't help... I normally like her alot!

The set is divided up into areas depending on her topic.. the audience section can rotate to whatever set. It's 45 minutes into the show and she's already handed out 3 things to the audience..

I did see a write up in the newspapers tvguide about her show and Megan Mullally's talk show. I hadn't heard this before but Rachael's show is at least in part (if not all) being produced by Oprah's Harpo Productions. Oprah supposedly will be on one of her shows this week. Today her special guest was Diane Sawyer.

The show just seems to be all over the place...! As I said maybe it's nerves and they'll calm down and get in sync over the next week or so.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/09/18 15:51

I'm with you KPW. I caught part of the show and was not impressed. Grizz, if today is representative, you will not be missing much. I know I won't be checking it out again and I really like the girl, but only in 30 minute doses. Heeee.

I like Karen from Will and Grace, but, I don't think she has the personality for a talk show host. We'll see.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by mazzy - 2006/09/18 18:35

I was disappointed too. I thought she spoke over her guest, and she spoke too fast. It may have been nerves, or too little experience... having a guest on seemed too distracting for her. I didn't care for the set design.

The Rachael Ray Show is on at the same time as the View in my area... so I found myself switching back and forth.

It sounded like she really hurt her finger with the knife... poor thing.

All in all it did not seem like a very good day for Rachael.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/09/18 19:44

Then I'm glad. I will just keep enjoying her Food Network shows. Thanks for sharing y'all!!!! Now I don't feel too bad!

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/18 21:59

I know I saw Tyra on another show last week and she was talking about her first season and how nerve wracking it is... She said she would be thinking about her next question rather than listening to what the guests were saying.. She has since relaxed and learned..

I think Rachel has the potential to make the leap from cooking show to talk show... but it depends on how quickly she can start to relax. To me, she just seemed too darned hyper... even more than normally..

I guess the day was supposed to have been themed 'firsts'..

What was with the laptop connection with a viewer at home..while she put the appetizer together? I didn't get the point? Just something different? Or maybe everyone has the ability to link with her via computer during the show... I have no clue.. I just think it might have been a gimmick that didn't go well.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/09/19 11:57

Well, I checked out Rachael again today because Oprah was on. I still didn't like it. Rachel is too hyper and shouts at the audience. She made me nervous.

She had an advice portion on shoes which IMO was laughable.

Oprah cannot be thinking that the show is going well. They need new writers and Rachael needs to cut out the coffee and run about 5 miles before she tapes the show.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by mazzy - 2006/09/19 17:42

I thought Rachael was a little better today... she did not seem as nervous, but... I agree still too hyper. I think hyper is simply part of who Rachael is... LOL

It was nice seeing Oprah... she sure has come a long way from when she started... always liked her, but more so today... she has worked hard... is good at what she does, and has earned the respect that she enjoys today. She seemed goofy in the kitchen... wonder if she put it on a bit much... for someone who obviously likes food she really seemed lost in the kitchen. LOL

I wish Rachael luck with her show, but I don't think she will make it in this particular set up. She is entertaining as a guest... she did well on the Food Network, but this setting may not be her thing.

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/19 19:49

Yahoo has a poll about the show.. and getting feedback from viewers. I was out most of the day and surprised to see the item on the yahoo front page.

Here is a link if anyone wants to reply or just read what others are saying.. (whoo boy..huge link!)

http://answers.yahoo.com/question/?_ylc=X3oDMTFiM2pvbzk1BF9TAzM5NjU0NTEwOQRfcwMzOTY1NDUxMDMEc2VjA3NiYwRzbGsDdG9kYXk--?qid=20060918100416AA7heKd&fr=hp

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by mazzy - 2006/09/19 23:21

Interesting... thanks for the link.

I think the women of SOT had just about the same response.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/09/20 11:54

Thanks KPW for the link, but for some reason I cannot get into the site. I'll try again later.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/20 12:13

I just tried it and it still works. You might copy and paste it to your browser..

You aren't missing much if you don't see it. As Mazzy mentioned there seems to be similar feelings. Although the die hard Rachel fans tend to think it was great!

I haven't really watched it since the first day. I surfed through it this morning..and saw her chatting at the kitchen table to the audience. Somehow it just seemed idiotic to me.. I know she is probably trying to create that family atmosphere and the familiar kitchen table chat sessions most families enjoyed with friends or family members..

I didn't even make it through a full segment this morning. It just isn't holding my interest.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by LaurenB - 2006/09/21 19:37

I have watch the new Racheal Ray show a couple of times, it didn't grab me. I find her a bit exhausting and noisy to watch. It will be interesting to see how all of these new talk shows shake out in a few weeks.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by scw23 - 2006/09/21 21:22

who is this girl anyway? i'm usually decently up on my pop culture but i have no idea who she is. maybe if i was able to sit thru more than a couple of minutes of the show i could figure it out lol

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/21 22:44

I didn't know who she was up until about a year or 2 ago either. But she is more famously known for her 30 minute meals show on the Food Network. She has a quirky warm girl next door type personality and she's everybody's typical cook. She advocates using lots of short cuts and being creative.. She wound up hosting a couple other shows as well. $40 a day... which has her traveling around the country (and world) and basically visiting tourist areas and finding great deals. $40 a day would be alot for the way our family eats.. but for those who vacation to splurge $40 a day can be a bargain.. She gives tips on finding the best places and also things to do in that particular city she's visiting. She also did another show where she visits with a major celebrity and they cook up something or review their restuarant. (some celebs get involved by lending their name or resources as an investment).. I think she's done a few specials too. She's more everyone's everyday cook rather than Mario Batali or Emeril.. Maybe a younger perkier version of Paula Deen..

Rachel would probably make a great guest on talk shows...but not sure if she can make the leap from her regular venue to her own talk show. She wound up falling into success from what I hear. I think she was doing a spot on a local news show or something originally.

If you saw her you'd probably recognize her... Her face has been on many magazines!

I found a link for you... which reminded me, she also has her own magazine and I'm sure her face has been on that one as well!

<http://www.rachaelray.com/>

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/12/05 19:07

I saw that the Roloff's (the parents on the show Big World, Little People) were supposed to be on this show today. I hope I taped it.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/12/05 19:07

I saw that the Roloff's (the parents on the show Big World, Little People) were supposed to be on this show today. I hope I taped it.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/12/05 21:26

Let us know if they were. Last week they were supposed to be on Dr. Ablow's show on Tuesday, but I was taking a friend for a radiation treatment. While I was curious... I don't particularly care for Dr. Ablow.. but would have watched it had I been home.. I think I posted about it on a thread about Dr. Ablow.. or the Roloff thread. Maybe I'll catch it on reruns!

I wonder why Rachel's show though? A cooking demo? Or was it just a human interest piece?

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by wish - 2006/12/05 23:38

They were on today it was about them finding easy meals they could cook for when they entertain friends and how to fit in quick meals with their busy scedules.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2006/12/06 18:40

They did do the cooking segment, but, they also did a talk segment in which they shared all of the positive feedback they have received from around the world from viewers, especially handicapped people. Rachael is a big fan and couldn't stop praising their show.

The audience was full of fans as well. It seems that the Roloffs have become quite the celebs. I suspect money troubles are no longer a problem. I also think that Matt is not doing that traveling sales job any more since, Amy said that most nights, it's her, Matt, Molly and Jacob for dinner and then Zack and Jeremy come in later after sports events or practice and want to eat then.

The dwarfs I saw on Dr. Ablow for just a few minutes were the other famous dwarf family. The wife is average height. The Roloffs could have come on there later, but, I didn't see them.

I wasn't home this past Saturday night and forgot to tape the show. Rats. I think I can catch it as a repeat Saturday or Sunday afternoon.

=====

Re:The Rachael Ray Show

Posted by Debby - 2007/11/06 14:29

Did anyone see Robin McGraw on Rachael Ray today? The camera zoomed close up on her face and I finally see what people have been talking about. She has had a lot of work done on her face. I mean it is very obvious. She is very tight, although her neck is not very tight. I hope she slows down before she ruins her very pretty face. I have also heard that she denies she has had any work. LOL.

What I found curious is that she did a mini makeover on a guest that didn't make sense to me. This lady wrote in and said that at 47 years old and with 4 kids, she was aging very fast and it showed her looking in the mirror at her face and talking about how old she was looking. So they bring her in for a makeover and Robin took her to her Spa lady and gave her a body wrap that supposedly takes the toxins out of your skin, including excess fluid. She was thrilled that she lost inches in her mid section. What I didn't get is that she wanted help with her face not her body. It seemed like a strange makeover to me. The woman wanted help with her face. She would have benefited from Botox and Collagen. Robin should have known this. LOL.

=====