

---

Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by Boppler - 2006/08/07 13:58

---

Today's episode: Lisa talking on the phone to her Mom, being disrespectful and rude to her (and her mom let her get away with it!)

:angry: Beyond rude: Not giving a hoot about showing up at the dinner for Allison - the one all of the other housemates had worked so hard on - because she didn't like Mexican food? Then came that shot of her still sitting there and swigging from her water bottle, how obnoxious.

Good grief, this woman is hopeless.

---

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/08/07 14:17

---

That's been the conversation that bothered me all season and I've referred to it a couple times... One of the reasons I think it reflects her true nature and how she probably treats her parents the majority of the time.

Perhaps alot like a teenager... but I can't see her feeling responsible for them...when she doesn't even feel responsible for herself..

Yes, I wanted to smack her when I first saw that episode and again today! Lisa seriously has her priorities askew...

She seems like she doesn't even care..and even as much admittd she wasn't going to feel guilty anymore!

---

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by Boppler - 2006/08/07 14:41

---

I don't think she ever felt guilty, or ever really has had any intention of changing. She just wants to do what she wants to do and doesn't give a damn about how it impacts or affects anyone else. Yuck.

---

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by MEW - 2006/08/07 19:25

---

I wonder if any of the other ladies watched the show and what they thought of what Lisa had to say about them. Calling them all kinds of names and watching how she really was on TV. I'm sure if they watched then they would turn away from her. It sure does seem to be like backstabbing to me. I know that if I was on the show and watched it she would have heard from me.

Nope sorry, not a Lisa fan---really saw her "fakeness" from day one when she entered the house and then when she had to tell her "story" just made it worse, and then all the "fake" boo-hooing....had to mute the TV when she was on. Still hitting the mute button now that it is in re-runs and shes on.....she should have left after her 3 "failed" assigment.....others did.....and I still ask the question.....what was so special about her to keep her on? Did Rhonda feel like this would be her "special project" and if anyone could "break" her down it would have been her? Nope just don't and didn't get it!:S :sick:

---

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by wish - 2006/08/07 22:37

---

Lisa was acting like a teenager.

---

---

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by Boppler - 2006/08/08 07:44

---

Nope sorry, not a Lisa fan---really saw her "fakeness" from day one when she entered the house and then when she had to tell her "story" just made it worse, and then all the "fake" boo-hooing....had to mute the TV when she was on

Thanks for the idea about hitting the "mute" button.
(Wow! Why didn't I think of that! :huh: )

I don't know of any teenager who consistently behaves this badly.
This woman should go around with a warning label on her!

=====

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/08/08 19:06

---

One word...Anxiety!;)

=====

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by piper - 2006/08/18 19:37

---

MEW wrote:

I wonder if any of the other ladies watched the show and what they thought of what Lisa had to say about them. Calling them all kinds of names and watching how she really was on TV. I'm sure if they watched then they would turn away from her. It sure does seem to be like backstabbing to me. I know that if I was on the show and watched it she would have heard from me.

Nope sorry, not a Lisa fan---really saw her "fakeness" from day one when she entered the house and then when she had to tell her "story" just made it worse, and then all the "fake" boo-hooing....had to mute the TV when she was on. Still hitting the mute button now that it is in re-runs and shes on.....she should have left after her 3 "failed" assignment.....others did.....and I still ask the question.....what was so special about her to keep her on? Did Rhonda feel like this would be her "special project" and if anyone could "break" her down it would have been her? Nope just don't and didn't get it!:S
:sick:

Can't even snip a word, I soooo agree. :)

Did ya'll notice when lisa came back to run the race, NO ONE was anywhere near her?!!!!

And the over dub was her saying how 'she felt so connected to everyone!' HA!

Was nice to see her left alone to run her own mouth and race.

I sincerely disliked her, more so than anyone on a TV show, or in real life.

allison came in a close second when dealing with SO ppl only on TV shows. Way too two faced for me, but she stuck close to lyanla, at least.

I'd love to hear what every one of the HGs had to say about each other, after watching the whole series, especially the confessional. I'm sure *some* of it was cleared up, behind scenes, but not all, as in lisa's yappin. Heh.

PP

=====

Re:Just Plain RUDE!

Posted by turtle - 2006/09/01 14:39

---

I found it odd that someone who claimed to dislike Mexican food so much that she'd boycott a HM's finale dinner in the

---

SOH would plan to serve this same type food, including guacamole, to celebrate Allison's return from Houston and give her a chance to share her experiences with everyone. Mexican food is, after all, Allison's favorite. I'll bet Lisa was just pissed over losing her personal maid service. And, would've hated whatever food was served.

=====