Sommers Site: She has a page of new SO3 picts... Can click on any to get a better look.

(also the top of the page there are other areas of her site you can check out.. This was the most interesting and relevant one to me!)

Enjoyed the group shots!

Thanks for the update... Niambi sounds well, and she writes very well. I just hope SM man doesn't hurt her. Niambi is a big girl... she is a grown woman who makes her own choices. She sounds a lot less defensive, and more sure of herself.

I think one of the hardest job of a parent, or a good friend, or a life coach is to stand back and watch someone you care about make foolish choices... with no judgements. Good luck Niambi.

It seems like Christie is getting mileage out of her stint on SO. Her MySpace blogs appear to function as some sort of side business. Does anyone know if Christie is working.

She doesn't. I wonder how she'll be able to raise her brother without a job. Maybe she has a charm bracelets and bon bon's store. :unsure:

How judgemental was that?

I liked Christie she worked hard to change, taking her brother was the best decision she ever made.

I also think it was a monumental task that deserves the utmost respect.

I will mention that earlier in the year I heard a rumor on another board that Christie had some sort of homebased job... helping people develop resumes or something like that. I also recall it being mentioned that before she came into the SO house that she was a waitress. If she waitressed at an upscale restaurant she could make big bucks! It could be that she wanted to give her brother time to settle in.

She hasn't been updating her Myspace lately.

She also has a website christieduran.com. She seems to have wanted to try to do some speaking engagements and I am sure she's probably had at least a few opportunities to do that. She could be a guest speaker on any number of fronts.. Women's groups, drug addiction, advocate for foster children...

I just hope life with Cain is going well for her... She doesn't have to have a 9-5 job... to be self supporting. She seemed to be pretty intelligent, I am not too worried about her.
