Nip Tuck

Tonight the new season for Nip Tuck begins. The show is very interesting, but not to be seen with little children or young teens.

This season several celebrities will be on as guests... I believe they will be focusing on botched surgeries... Brooke Shields is one of the guest stars scheduled to appear.

The show revolves around two plastic surgeons... who are friends, their families, and lots of old history ties them together.

It's on FX at 10:00 PM, and repeated at 11:00 PM in my area.

OMG, you must check out this show. I am a regular fan and wasn't sure what to expect from this season. The last 2 seasons of the slasher were devoted to the same big storyline... THE slasher. The show botched the ending to that finale. Many of the details in the beginning of the slasher mystery didn't add up to allow the culprit to be the one they pinned it on. I was angry they thought the audience so stupid.

I have forgiven and hope they do better. The first episode was good, although at times it takes a strong stomach and mind to watch the show. Shocking is what I call it. The payoff is the great acting and the way it makes me think about many things in life, by viewing the bizarre nature of others.

I consider it the most daring show on television..even more than HBO shows.

Larry Hagman (J.R. from Dallas) is a new regular. He just had artificial testicles inserted after a run with cancer. Brook Shields is the psychiatrist who is treating the plastic surgeon right in her office. And I do mean TREATING.

WARNING: It's not for the faint of heart.

Isn't it the wildest show you have ever seen? This past week they have started a storyline involving Scientology. The doctor's son wants to leave psychiatric treatment and medication to join the Church of Scientology. He had to come up with a monetary deposit to do it. I wonder how much the donation had to be or if they will disclose that?

What do you think of Shaun and Julia? The more I watch that show, the more I detest them as parents. They really don't know how to raise children. Remember all the violent scenes last season in the children's presence. Now, they are having another child while treating their daughter with such insensitivity. She will be next to start therapy. I guess part of why I like the show is the way it makes you examine the human being and what we are all capable of. It is shocking.

I can't wait for Rosie's appearance. Is that on tonight?

Shaun and Julia... twisted.

Scientology storyline should be interesting... psychiatric treatment, and medication don't seem to be working. LOL

Nip Tuck is shocking... it's twisted, but it's a must see. LOL

I'm not sure if Rosie will be on tonight... do you think Brooke Shields will be a regular? Wonder what her "show" opinion may be on the Scientology storyline... LOL

I doubt that Christian will see Brook again after that office incident.
Can you believe it?

ANd Shaun, what a dog. Hopping in bed with the girl interviewing to nurse his unborn baby while his 9 month pregnant wife sits at home waiting for him. I was sooooo shocked. He has truly lost his mind.
I think Julia knows though. Did you see the way she looked at him as the baby was being born? This will come back to haunt him.

Right now the crazy kid Matt is the only one who acts like he has a brain on the show.

How did they get that baby's hands to look deformed? The odds of them finding a baby with that rare defect to play that role are high. It looked so real.

This is Nip Tuck... of course I believe the incident with Christian and Brooke. LOL

A new low for Nip Tuck... Shaun IS a dog... to put it nicely. I had to remind myself that this is TV... I kept thinking no, no... too late he was in bed with the potential baby nurse. This nurse is not going away any time soon... my guess is that we will see "nurse stalker" as in Fatal Attraction. Dumb, dumb Shaun. LOL. I saw the look Julia gave Shaun, but I thought it was because his focus seemed to be on the baby only... not her. Oh well. LOL

Too funny... Matt does seem like the only one that has it together... maybe there is something to Scientology for him... LOL

Re the baby's hands... probably some great makeup artist using a soft glove, plastic mold.

How about "office politics" regarding harrassment... this new lady (can't remember her name) is starting with the wrong person... this group is too closely knit... seems like she is backing off. Oh well, nice try lady. LOL

Another day... another night away from reality. Love this show. LOL

I haven't really watched this show or followed the thread...but happened to see an interview on one of the entertainment shows about Rosie being on the show in a sex scene!

Here is the link about it...but it was interesting hearing her talk about it. She was literally gushing about the actor she did the scene with... It sounds like she had alot of fun!

I'm sure it will catch the attention and bring new viewers to the show. According to this link it will air on Oct. 3rd.

Rosie will be on Nip Tuck next week!!! It looks like a wild one. Sje wins the lottery and decides to have a total body makeover and then have Christian make love to her. This is must see tv. Wonder if she used a body double or she does it her self. Most of the people on that show who are in sex scenes appear naked.

Trivia question for anyone who watched Nip Tuck in it's first season. I did a little bit but can't remember something.

"Didn't they have a storyline about organ theft way back then?"

It seems to me there have been old episodes involving organ theft. I just can't recall what kind of organs and who was stealing them. I remember a colleague of the doctors who ran his office in the back of a hotel or something or went crazy and tried to kill them.

Jump in if you remember anything about the old shows and have any idea or what I'm talking about.

I know absolutely nothing about the show...

But I have seen 2 separate incidents where Rosie describes the taping of the episode. And 'no' body double!

I think you tape the View, and you should enjoy today's show as she does give the low down again about the upcoming episode.. and also today was the show that Carrie and Tina from Celebrity Fit Club visit.

There were episodes involving Christian and a jealous colleague... if I remember correctly, but I don't remember storylines involving organ theft. I think the colleague was on drugs, and had serious psychological problems. I believe he wanted to be Christian... he was jealous of his looks, his life, and his success. The scene you described I believe was behind a nail place where he gave botox treatments that disfigured his patients.

You are correct Mazzy. I think that mad doctor wanted to cut off Christian's face and put it on his face.... a face transplant if you will. Maybe that is what I was remembering.

I can't wait to see Rosie and Christian. I hope I'm not disappointed. She didn't seem to mind playing a straight woman at all.

Don't forget tonight is the night for Rosie to appear on Nip Tuck. I hope they don't kill her off on the show. That would not make me too happy. The main characters on that show are getting meaner and crazier by the minute. NOthing they do can surprise me anymore.

She revealed another clip today on the View.. Between the different clips, I think I've seen the bulk of her appearance. She's made it sound like it's been a one time deal...not that she'll have a continuing role.. But ya never know..

The clip they showed was her making the deal with the doc for the romp. She offered $100k.. he countered and said 10 minutes, strictly missionary, no kinky stuff.

I think I've seen 3 different clips now.. I get the picture.. Haven't been into the show..and don't think that will change.. but I'm sure she's giving the show a good boost in publicity! That might cause them to want to bring her back on that alone!

It sounded like she was the one who initiated contact (through her agent) to be on the show.
