Funny new blog entry.. Rhonda

It's obvious she still has to work on her own insecurity issues... It's never ending... and clearly she can laugh about them..and put them in perspective..

I enjoyed the blog entry... I think we've all been there... with that type of thinking... A flaw being magnified in our imagination!

It's a blog and doesn't need to have a point.

I thought a good point made was when you are feeling vulnerable, use your tools... We all backslide from time to time and revert back to old behaviors or thought patterns. Overcoming them as they arise is worth noting!

That's pretty funny and I can so relate to it. Mr. Love-a-Lot sounds as if he has a rockin bod. Of course I always thought Rhonda was an attractive lady. I never saw her as having a butt out of proportion to her body. I guess we all have our insecurities about something. She looked pretty fit on SO the day she and Jessica went for a run. She had on a pair of biking shorts that were quite snug. Maybe she gained weight since then.

It is so wonderful to know that Rhonda is being herself and can find the humor in it to help others. Hopefully something will come up for her on TV so that she can help more people.

Interesting blog.

I'm glad Rhonda is learning that it isn't Mr Love-a-Lot's job to make her feel good about her body. It's her job. Since, unless she already feels good about her body, no one can make her. As a former SOLC, she ought to know this. How hard has she tried to make her HG's, especially Christie, feel good about their bodies, to no avail?

And, that part about her butt hanging 100 feet in the air. :laugh:

I'll bet, that far below her, all those onlookers couldn't even see it. But, in her mind's eye, that sucker was growing bigger and bigger.

:ohmy:

You know who immediately came to mind as I read Rhonda's blog about her latest rock climbing experience? Layne! It really cracked me up. I don't see any comparison, of course. I think Rhonda's athletic enough to actually enjoy rock climbing. But, Layne never was. She was only trying to impress her "third" fiance.
