Here is a piece of old news from November 7th not sure if anyone has heard Anna Nicole selling her C-Section tape and other personal items for CASH.

Could she be that money hungry!

Here is that story :<http://news.softpedia.com/news/Anna-Nicole-Smith-Would-Sell-Her-Soul-for-an-Extra-Buck-39664.shtml> and here is the video clip in the delivery room: <http://dlisted.com/2006/11/07/anna-nicole-sells-her-damn-c-section-video/>

Nothing she does anymore surprises me...

Wouldn't you think her lawyer friend Stern would have steered her away from being so ridiculous..

I guess she needs a new sugar daddy..

I don't know if her relationship with Stern is on the up and up or not... but you'd think he would try to keep her from making a complete idiot of herself..

Why can't he go to work.. so that she doesn't have to be so desperate for a buck... I mean if he is a lawyer.. he'd have the ability to make a decent living. Maybe he can't practice in the bahamas though...

It's also possible that it's a hoax..that someone else is pulling.. and that she isn't really selling c section tape! I sure hope it's a hoax!

Too bizarre...and tacky!

I believe it is standard practice to administer an epidural prior to a C-section, so why is Anna in so much pain? Why does she appear to be so drugged?

I have also seen the footage of Anna insisting that she cut the cord, even though she is out of it, and she darts around with the scissors in her hand, it was a danger to the child, but Howard and the doctor go right along with her.

I have never seen any other woman deliver on tv with an epidural that act that wild and nutty. Why her ?

I think she is about broke and that creepy lawyer of hers lived off her didn't he?

What happened with the suit of the baby's father or the guy who says he is the father and the court ordered a DNA test?

You think she is something--well so is her family. They are trying to say that this lawyer killed her son cause he wants Anna to himself. VH1 did a bio on her family and all they wanted was money from her.

But I don't think ole Howard is the babys father--she could never stand the thought of having sex with him just to get pregnant.

I saw on tv last night that Anna has been evicted from the Bahamas house she is living in. I'm not sure if the program was a re-run or not but I had not heard some of the things they were reporting.

The reports said that the government wanted to deport her from the Bahamas because she falsely reported to the government that she owned property there when in fact she does not. The owner of the house sued Anna to evict her from the house. He claims she was supposed to buy the house but later refused to sign the paperwork. She also hasn't paid anything to the owner while living there in the form of rent.

Anna claims she thought the owner gave her the house and that she didn't need to sign any paperwork. That's hard to swallow.

The owner also says that he used to date Anna and that Anna originally told him that he was the father of Anna's daughter. He then informed Anna that he knew that was not true since he had had a viscectomy. LOL. Anna then recanted and told him that the photographer in California was indeed the father. Now I don't know what to think. Does she even know who the father is?

The guest psychologist on the show last night, say that Anna and Howard Stern are both narcissist and so self absorbed in their belief that they are above everyone else that they feel they have no obligation to anything other than their own selfish needs. They believe they are above the law. I don't believe that Anna will provide the child for a DNA sample even if the court commands her to do it. This could be interesting because that could mean she might be ordered to go to jail until she complies.

I am sure they fraudulently tried to get citizenship in the Bahamas so that they could avoid the U.S. authorities... Maybe they had to be property owners to qualify for citizenship..

I had heard that electricity had been cut off at one point..

To my knowledge, she doesn't even have access to the money she supposedly inherited as it is still tied up in litigation..Maybe Stern is waiting to receive his cut...and then abandon her... Maybe they are meant for each other after all.. But I do feel sorry for that baby.

I heard she and Howard were back in the states.. But didn't mention where the baby is. I wouldn't put it past her to keep the baby out of arms length of the authorities if at all possible.

I'm sure after all this... No company (Trimspa) is going to want to be associated with Anna...and she'll lose her ability to make an honest living. It's really so sad... and that baby should have someone looking out for her welfare..

I heard there is bad news for Anna on two fronts. First that a judge has ordered her to produce the child for a DNA sample by January 28 I think it is. I'm not sure what will happen if she doesn't but, I think she will refuse to do it. Anna believes she is above the law.

Her attorney is supposed to be on one of those Entertainment Tonight type shows tonight at 7:30 EST.

In addition to that, I saw on the news that the FDA is coming down hard on diet pill companies, including TRim Spa, about how they advertise false claims. They are having to pay millions of dollars in fines and halt the false claims they make about the pills.

I fear Anna Nicole may be out of a job, of course, her reputation is so bad now, that Trim Spa may just ditch her anyway. Right after her son's death, Trim Spa Executives were on tv supporting her, but, since all of the other stuff has surfaced, I suspect they will change their position on her.

I saw on Nancy Grace last night that the deadline for Anna Nicole to produce the child for a DNA sample was actually yesterday. Of course she refused. They said that an attorney now representing her showed up at the least minute in LA court and offered several reasons she couldn't do it that were so preposterous that there were not worth repeating. Also, Anna called the photographer who claims he is the father and left a voice message that she was never taking the ----- test. She must know that she can never win custody of her daughter if Howard Stern is not the father.

I'm curious to see how they will deal with her intentionally violating a California court order, with her being in the Bahamas.

If she has any assets, including bank accounts or even potential funds that could come her way, I bet the court could put a hold on them to force her to take the test.

I think everyone now believes that Anna has really lost it. Can you imagine being raised by a mother that out of touch with reality?

I also wonder why if Anna Nicole is so sure that Howard Stern is the father, doesn't she conduct a DNA test of the child and Howard Stern? I haven't heard of her doing that. That would prove she is right.

While it sounds crazy, I wonder if Anna Nicole is keeping all of this controversy going just to stay in the news. The more controversy about her, the child and the situation, the more valuable her photos and interviews are. She is soooo greedy. I don't mean the thing about her poor old dead husband, she was married to that man and whatever she gets from that, so be it, but the other greedy stuff is just too much. I don't know that's what's she's doing here, but it is really the only explanation, if she KNOWS that Birkhead is not the father. Why else not do the test?

I have a question.. She had a commitment ceremony a few days after her son died...with her attorney Howard Stern. I keep hearing them referring to him as her husband. Did they make it legal at some point? Does he stand to inherit the millions that was supposedly to go to her once it got freed up in the courts?

I can't help but to wonder if he had something to do with all of this..
Maybe the Perry Mason in me! Especially if he is the one who stands a huge windfall.

I hope Stern isn't given custody or at the very least a custodial guardian designated until paternity is established... I wonder where the baby was while Anna was in Florida? The news said that her 'husband' was with her when she died.. It also mentioned that her roommate found her..

Gee, all of this is sooo bizarre, that it makes you wonder about 'whodunnit'? She seemed she was on a self destructive path..

There were certainly billions of dollars at stake!

I just watched the news and a clip of the police statement. I don't know if it was the news reporter but seemed like they were alluding to a possible criminal investigation. Maybe they have to rule that out as a matter of routine investigation.

The reporters were already talking about Anna Nicole's life being portrayed in a movie..

Just wanted to say that I have always had a "different take" on Howard Stern re his relationship with Anna Nicole. For years, it seemed obvious to me that he was in love with her. I also thought that he was really at ...her...beck and call, and not the other way around. I really do believe that he will be devastated by her death. I was never sure how or why he came to be seen as some "sinister" character. While her show was running, he was often referred to as her "lap dog." When did he become the "villain?":unsure:

I don't know C.... Just my impression that he has tried to create a coverup of sorts.. He was an attorney... and seemed to be present at every turn.. Even in the room when Daniel died! I just get the impression that he seemed to turn a blind eye to her shenanigans and perhaps even covering up for her.

I could be totally wrong about him. I would have thought he should have advised Anna to cooperate with the authorities.. It certainly seemed ill timed for them to have a commitment ceremony and for him to profess paternity of the baby.(right after Daniel died)... There hadn't been any other leaks of the relationship.. and seemed to have caught everyone by surprise..

I do think maybe because of the enormous wealth she stood to eventually inherit that she could have been manipulated. Someone had to be supplying her with the drugs..

I could be very wrong... I just was very suspicious even after Daniel's death. Howard was the one who fetched him from the airport and bought him to the hospital.. Maybe my suspicions are a carryover from that.

So many little things regarding the new citizenship, the house they were living in and then evicted from..(supposedly) and the utilities turned off there.. I am just very skeptical...that he seemed to act more as her manager than a boyfriend/husband.

I saw things exactly the same way. And the sudden "marriage" seemed convenient in that, even if not technically valid, it could be argued to prevent authorities from requiring one to testify about the other because of spousal and marital privileges. Also, Stern's alleged presence in the room when the boy died added to the suspicion. Assuming Anna Nicole was beside herself at her son's death and not making rational choices, one would have expected a true romantic partner, and a lawyer for that matter, to counsel against sudden decisions like a pseudo-marriage especially in her state of mind. There are also rules about romantic relationships with legal clients because of the conflict of interest it creates which is another basis to question his motives. I don't think of him as a "villain." I think he is someone who has some explaining to do and has yet to do it. The claim of paternity also seems less than genuine, given the timing and the fact that Anna Nicole never complied with paternity testing, a decision I believe Stern has influenced. I will be interested to see if the baby will now be taken into some sort of protective custody and the DNA sample will be taken so they can do the paternity test with the other man, and at least resolve that issue.

K....I agree that there are lots of questions to be answered. As to Stern being in the hospital room when Daniel died, I believe I heard that they were all sleeping there. That wouldn't be that unusual in "their world." Anna Nicole seemed to need constant company.

I do think that Stern indulged her every whim though, and could believe that he would try to protect her. From what, is the question though. If Daniel had just come from the airport, it's possible he may have already ingested the drugs that killed him. Do you know where he was coming from?

I wonder if Anna's death will be ruled a suicide? She seemed, at least to me, to be depressed and "broken" after Daniel's death.

I just happened to catch a snippet of an (old)interview,in which she said that everything good in her life always seemed to have a dark cloud following it.

(Have to say that I would much rather be discussing this in the other thread!

Tragic, and sad,sad, sad...

Re:How LOW will Anna Nicole GO?

Posted by KPW1956 - 2007/02/08 23:25

C, I agree... it is sad. She really was a beautiful woman. I have no animosity toward her or Howard.. Obviously, we can only speculate and there are certainly a hundred different directions this could go..

Just having that money looming in the background certainly casts a gloomy picture of the whole sequence of events.

She cut off her own family..

Some of the news media are speculating that if Daniel had a genetic heart defect, than it is possible that she might have too. I also heard that losing her weight quickly (supposedly using Trimspa) could have thrown her bodies mechanisms off.. and make her susceptible to heart problems.

Maybe suicide was a factor.. They hadn't mentioned why she was at the resort. It was stated that Stern was at the complex too although not with her.. The baby was still in Nassau..

I did see one article that mentioned she wasn't feeling well and had flu like symptoms and a fever..

It really is sad.. I hope that Stern does make himself available to answer questions.. eventually. I wonder what kind of lawyer he was..

I am sure it was very traumatic to lose her son the way she did... and then to possibly risk the loss of her daughter if Birkhead was proven to be the father and she was deemed unfit to parent her.

But I got to say, she was pretty messed up even before that all happened.. But it could have been enough to send her to the point of no return.. She was in a no win situation..

Re:How LOW will Anna Nicole GO?

The report is now that Anna had a 105 temp and the nurse packed her in ice and brought it down. Why wasnt she taken to the hospital.

Oh for crying out loud do that DNA test to find out who the father is.

Last but no least--Howard was always considered overly possessive of her very controlling--they often fought about that. She was also supposed to be his only financial support. The guy is creepy and always was. On those reality shows she couldn't even decorate without him interffering. Anna's family who she has been estranged from of course publicly believed he killed her son cause he was so controlling and possessive and "wanted Anna to himself" And of course he was with the son when he died. Then how did suddenly Howard come back in her life claimed he was her husband and this was their baby. Something weird was going on. Was he drugging her in all those scenes we saw Anna on ET and telling her what to say for money and making her sell photos of her son for money. Why was he back in her life when he was living elsewhere when she was going out with Birkhead. What hold did he have over her. Maybe ole Howard drugged her got her pregnant since she vowed "having sex with Howard would make her puke" and she would never do that, her female lover reported.

Problem with using drugs anyone can overdose..plus anyone can overdose you too. He son overdosed on anti-depressants that were prescription and meth. We will never know just like that hard rock singer where many blamed Courtney Love for overdosing her husband and killing him. No proof.

Well either way this was a sad person but there was always something to admire about her.

Anna Nicole has intrigued me for a long time, however, her bizare behavior just before the birth of Danielynne, really shocked me. I'm referring to a video of her standing in a pool, (she was not yet showing) and asking people to click on if they wanted to know if she was indeed pregnant. There was a small charge to get the information. She appeared impaired in this video. Her eyes didn't look right and her speech was slurred. It went downhill from there.

I was surprised at how upset I got when I found out she was dead. Even though I always disliked the way she behaved like the child which forced Daniel to be the caretaker of her, there was still something likeable about her. I really rooted for her. I wanted her to get the inheritance from her deceased husband.

As far as Howard goes, I have never seen him on camera that he appeared to be impaired, while Anna always appears impaired IMO, except when she is in court. Howard must know the extent of her addiction.

What I really don't get is why people who knew her are going on tv and saying that Anna was unfairly portrayed by the media. I think she portrayed herself as she was in the media....very intoxicated by some substance. She even called her mother a fat cow. That was too much.

Her friend James John or John James, kept talking about how wonderful she was as a hostess and how wonderful she was with his children. My question is, "Did she appear to be impaired when she was entertaining he and his children?" I would not allow my children to be around a person that messed up on drugs or alcohol. Why would she only get messed up to go on tv interviews, talk shows and award shows, but then stay sober in the privacy of her home? It doesn't make sense to me.

I don't know what caused her death. It may have been anything, but, nothing disputes her obvious substance abuse problem.

I just hope that arrangements are made to protect the child.

If I were Howard, I would be afraid to keep custody of the baby. I mean, how would it look if God forbid something tragic happened to that child while the child was in Howard's care. I would not want to be the last surviving person in that family alive. Even if you were completely innocent, the implications would be overwhelming.

I never saw the report either... and I am sure the media would have been all over it.. In any event if it happened, he should have made sure she had gotten the medical attention at that point. He is always so calm cool and collected.. I heard she had pneumonia back in Dec.

I heard they were saying she had been sick for several days.. But she only arrived there on Monday..

The preliminary report today is that they still don't know why she died. They said everyone is cooperating and obviously there were several others around..although noone there when she went down. They said a nurse found her. And a bodyguard started doing cpr.. Why wouldn't the nurse have been able to get that started..

Just a whole lot of strange sets of circumstances..

I saw Danny Bonaduce giving an interview saying that during her reality show...she was so out of it most of the time that they had to prop her up and tell her what lines she was to say... and film the show in bits and pieces.

Danny Bonaduce probably isn't the best source out there given his own history.. But he seemed sober enough..

I just saw that Anna's mother has gone to the Bahamas to check on the baby..

How old is Zsa Zsa Gabor's husband? Was she after another wealthy old man!

Zsa Zsa's husband is a Prince (supposedly bought his way into it with an adoption)

He was 59 years old and the articles says that she wanted to be made into a Princess and short of divorcing Zsa Zsa and marrying her... he would have adopted her but Zsa Zsa would not permit it.

He claims his affair with her started while she was married to Marshall.

Maybe ole Howard drugged her got her pregnant since she vowed "having sex with Howard would make her puke" and she would never do that, her female lover reported. ..."

OMG yes, do the DNA test already! And Mistyblu you expressed how Stern's conduct struck me as well. I don't know if he actually did anything active to harm anyone, but anyone could see that this woman was drowning, in her grief, in drugs, and now there's report about her recently found floating in a pool. What was this man, her "husband," doing to help her? All I read about was his sudden insistence that he was the baby's father, his influence in causing her to resist tests to prove paternity, the lack of cooperation during the inquiry about her son's death. And that "commitment ceremony" - with someone in HER condition? Totally unethical. I have read that friends of hers are now caring for the baby, which if true is a curious thing, where a surviving parent would be expected to draw even closer to the child to provide protection and comfort.

And as Debby said, As far as Howard goes, I have never seen him on camera that he appeared to be impaired, while Anna always appears impaired IMO, except when she is in court. Howard must know the extent of her addiction.

He was always lucid and completely in control, while she was falling apart. How could he let her appear on camera that way? Nothing about his conduct or decisions rings truthful.

I know, I know, Howard did not seem to be looking out for Anna's best interest, but, did you ever see Anna's reality show. I bet they will bring it back in reruns now. I bet you.

Anyway, even though Anna was messed up on drugs and drinking, she still bossed Howard around like a dog. She would whine and pout and order him to do any crazy thing you can imagine....anything from washing her dog to picking her up fast food. I really felt sorry for him. He had no self-respect at all. She would occasionally give him a hug or pat on the head and he would just eat it up.

I think I remember seeing him take charge once when the decorators for Anna's bedroom didn't do a good job per there instruction. But, it seemed as if it took alot to get him going. To me, he seemed like a pushover. I don't know, maybe he's changed and the roles were reversed. I guess we'll get the chance to see now.

Debby, that could have just been a 'role' he played... It was her show...and I seem to recall it was his idea.. Her show was on 2002-2004 if I recall right and he'd by then been with her since almost the time of her husband's death.. or at least the hearings shortly thereafter regarding the will. It would have been to his advantage to let her have the spotlight in that show.. If he'd stood up to her.. or balked at something.. then that would have detracted from her stardom... (for lack of a better word!)

I found this news piece about Howard. It mentions a wedding ceremony that had been planned for Feb. 23rd. I wonder if any invites went out? Seems strange that this piece of info if given. Why didn't they just marry back in Sept? rather than stage a fake wedding?

Check out this article..

No record of him ever having done any cases in Calif..(attorney of record?).. Had an apt. in Santa Monica... and had a business called "Hot Smoochie Lips, Inc."... but nothing is known about the company..

I expect alot more will come out regarding this mystery man.. he might be in over his head..

I guess you may be right KPW. Maybe they were playing roles on Anna' reality show, but, it seemed pretty authentic. I don't think either of them are very talented actors, but, they convinced me on that show that he was the puppy dog and she was the master.

Anyway, regardless of who was in charge before, Howard is now and it really ticks me off. Without some proof of a legal document, he has no say so over Anna Nicole or her property, so why is he running the show??? This is just crazy.

His interview last night on the plane was horrible. I think he is channeling the spirit of Anna with his derogatory comments about grandmother.

Without Anna's money, how is he affording to pay a nanny, attorneys, housekeepers, utility bills? Why are the Bahamian officials allowing this? I also heard they never signed the papers to purchase the house, so that is not Anna's and certainly not his. He should be back on his way to his apt in CA.

If you were sure that the baby was your child, there is no reason that you would resist the DNA test....plain and simple. He either knows for sure he is NOT the father or his has some serious doubt. I'm wondering what he is going to say if it turns out from the test that he is not the father. What will his response be then?

I read the transcript at Larry King's site of the show where he had Larry Birkhead on. Apparently Birkhead and her broke up about 5 months into her pregnancy. He said that Stern was very interfering.. I think I put the link to that transcript on the Sylvia Browne thread since that topic was also mentioned on that show... (the show was Jan. 26th)..

Anyway, He mentioned in that thread that when the breakup occurred she went to North or South Carolina and told some old guy there that he was the father. The cook who just came forward also says that Anna told him she wanted to have his baby...

Since the info came out about Anna having her deceased husbands sperm stored somewhere and her sister hypothesizing that she might have tried to conceive with that sperm.. At the time she conceived the Supreme Court ruling had not been made where they ruled in her favor.. Maybe it could have been a ploy to create a new heir.. They did give this child the Marshall name ... Seems odd... Dannielynn Hope Marshall Stern... Poor kid... She really does need to be appointed a guardian until all the legalities are settled.

I read that the plans were for them to get the yacht... go get a ring and the license and then get married later this month.. Or so says Stern.. I still wonder why they couldn't have done that before..? Why didn't she have a ring already? Would have been alot to accomplish in 2 weeks... He claims they were going to get married on the 26th.. I am just very skeptical..

I also read that his sister said the last time he saw Anna she was asleep.. She supposedly had a 105 temp and the nurse was going to pack her on ice.. Supposedly Stern tried to get her to go to the doctor but she didn't want to go and attract the publicity. To me that sounds wierd.. When someone has a 105 temp... they need to be in the hospital.. She would have been too delirious to refuse.. and why oh why...if she was packed on ice.. was the nurse not with her until the fever broke..

It was also mentioned that she'd had a recent surgery to correct a breast augmentation and had 10 different prescriptions for pain meds..

More and more keeps coming to light.. It gets more bizarre by the day.

I wonder if Stern is the one who took the picture of Anna and the Bahamian official who is now in hot water. It might have been on his computer and someone took access of some of that info... Who knows what else might have been on that computer..

Even if she didn't want to go to a doctor... Couldn't he have gotten a doctor to visit her? Surely if they can afford a yacht they would be able to get a doctor to come to her. 105 is something you don't play around with... specially if he wanner her well for their wedding.

Just about as messy as a soap opera... even messier really. There are now 4 men coming foward to claim Daniellyn and possibly frozen sperm theory? ... I feel soooo sorry for this little girl!

Thank heavens she is oblivious to all of this...at least for now. I do hope that someone will some day show her the pictures and tapes of her being lovingly held by her mother. No matter how this paternity and custody fiasco turns out, she should know that she was loved.

I just spent the evening watching various cable news programs.. on CNN, MSNBC and a couple others..

One interviewer had the supposed nurse and bodyguard on. It was an older woman and an older man. They just described her as a friend.. She was probably her hand maiden more or less than she was a nurse.. Anyway, just led me to think there are alot more holes in the story about her being sick and this woman was not a nurse and noone was with her. No mention of that she might have choked on vomit.. which was a brief rumor here or somewhere...

I think after all these shows air tonight...there will be some fresh information. Many people are questioning Howard K. Stern's actions and influence on Anna Nicole.

Anna's best friend and godmother to her children was on several of the shows.. She did not have anything good to say about Stern...and said that Anna had told her that Larry Birkhead was the father.

Today both Anna's mother and Stern filed petitions to request release of Anna's body to them. Stern also had the coroner do an affidavit stating that waiting too long will cause problems in the embalming process. Even if her body is refrigerated.. it will begin to break down if embalming doesn't happen soon. Then they may not be able to have a 'viewing'!. The coroner who did the autopsy was on Nancy Grace... He wouldn't reveal what has been determined so far.. but did offer the possibility that perhaps the body could be embalmed at the morgue rather than the funeral home..

I get the feeling that Stern is being backed into a corner... No telling what might happen to him or what he might do out of desperation. I do fear for the baby..

Even Judge Judy was in on the act as she was on Larry King.. She says that Stern is doing a grave disservice to Dannielynn by not helping to expedite a resolution to the paternity issue.. That the baby needs to be placed in a stable environment where she will be nurtured.. and not drag it out for months or possibly years. I think she alluded to the fact that there was something suspicious about both deaths.. That it was highly unusual for them to die at such young ages..

Many have mentioned how low Anna Nicole had been since her son died.. I wonder if she might have committed suicide..

She seemed to have a ready supply of drugs.. prescription or otherwise. Hopefully they can trace the trail from user to supplier..

According to the link above BOTH Howard and Anna's mother have requested immediate release of her body. It also states the ME has said keeping her body any longer could be damaging.

A California judge has just lifted the request to hold the body, saying "California has no need for the body of Anna Nicole."
Her body has been cleared for release from the morgue. Will anybody "fight that?" Hope not...let the poor woman be laid to rest!

It changes every five minutes! Just read , while it was a petition from California (via Birkhead, I would imagine) that caused Florida to hold the body, the Florida court will still need to be petitioned to release the body. It may just be a formality at this point. Oy!

I watched sooo much last night on all the various shows about the happenings as of late. It makes my head spin. Every five minutes there is some new twist.

Bottom line is I'm really upset that Stern is holding up the DNA test. Also, where is the Will? Stern says it exist but where is it? Has it been examined for authenticity? Has anyone else actually seen it? Is it in the Bahamas or California. Even the appointed Executor can be overturned if that person was instrumental in the decedent's death. Usually there is an alternate executor listed in a Will.

The alternate executor is Stern's attorney.. and also Anna's attorney.

His name is Ron Rale and he mentioned the will was drawn up in 2001.
