
The New You

I saw this in an article on MSNBC/ Today. The creators of the Swan has a new show lined up that doesn't focus so much on plastic surgery but life changes as well as a make-over. The New You

The producer of The Swan said the time constraints on the program never allowed anyone to see the emotional / mental transformation they had to go through and she wanted to show more of that and less of the physical changes they do so she developed a talk show type program. Each person goes to a lifecoach and other consultations to work on the mental and emotional health issues.

I'm going to reserved judgement until I see it. I might watch it a couple of time to see how they do this.

Here's the link to her interview. 'Swan' creator on transforming yourself

Thanks TigerRose,

I can't tell when it is slated to air though.. I never watched the Swan (I don't think) but did watch Extreme Makeover... (before the home version got popular)....

It's certainly a possibility and could have some good info related to self esteem and possibly women's health issues..

There is an Oct date mentioned but I think that might have been for a dvd release of the Swan series.

Do you know when it will be on? and what station/network might be carrying it?

I don't really know. I not sure if it's going to be on TV or just webTV.
I will try to find out.

I happened to tune into the Today Show today and coincidentally saw that they were doing a segment called something similar.. I didn't hear the top of the segment but at the end, they didn't plug any show. I thought it might have been coincidental..or was just going to be a regular feature on the Today Show..

Tonight I checked the show's website and found info about the segment and also the upcoming project..

Still haven't figured out when it will air...But now most likely know it will be affiliated with NBC.

There is a link to the website..for the upcoming show

Look forward to having a positive show for a change with some practical advice / application messages.

I did see the makeover they featured.. and it was very well done..

From info at the latter site... It seems that this show will have several innovative features..

I wonder if this is that ivillage project that was spoken about some months ago.. I hadn't heard anything more about it. Seems that they were talking about the ivillage project being some sort of interactive show done out of Orlando or something...

Has anyone heard anymore about the ivillage project that was spoken about near the end of SO.. when everything was up in the air?

I answered my own question..

No..it's not the same.. But coincidentally...a search on ivillage women's project yielded info showing that there is a new show debuting in 5 days! I guess on Monday..

It is on 'select' NBC stations.. They never filled my local NBC SO's slot.. (junk tv since the show went off).. So I reckon that I'll be getting it.. (I just checked the online tvguide...and I figured right! I guess I'll tune in and see what it's about..) Surprised they haven't done any promoting... That I am aware of anyway... I wouldn't have known had I not looked about the New You show.

Here's a link... Looks like you can interact with it online too.. Not sure if it will be an SO replacement in any sense of the word... It's for women...That's all I know!

I checked my local cable listing and they don't have either one listed for the next 2 weeks.

Sounds interesting... tried to click the sneak peek thingy, but it didn't work.

I haven't heard anything about this show till now.
