
The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/12/27 11:37

I know the Subject is strange...but happened on an article online about Rosie's rumored to be leaving..

Apparently she's interested in hosting the Price is Right.. I don't know if they are really considering her but I hadn't seen anything about it...and since we've chatted about all 3 topics... Thought it might be worth sharing..

Now that would be interesting yet again...if The View went through another upheaval.. They still haven't filled in Star's vacant chair... (permanently anyway)...

Don't know if I could see Rosie filling in for Bob or not.... I think she might use it more as a platform to try out her comedy material... Seems she is already doing that on The View..

Has anyone heard if they've got someone to fill Bob's shoes when he officially retires?

Here's the link re: rosie/The View/ and the Price is Right..

http://extratv.warnerbros.com/2006/12/is_rosie_panning_for_the_price.html

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by MEW - 2006/12/27 17:35

Did you read the post that people wrote!!:unsure:

I am not a real big Rosie fan as much as we used to be. I don't watch "The View" anymore either.....she is just too pushy and gets on my nerves!! Its not "Rosies View". To me she seems like she runs the show and wants to upcast the other ladies. One day when Barbra was on and they were sitting next to each other Rosie said something and I thought Barbra was going to fall over!! I really wish they would pick someone else next year.

As for her being on "The Price is Right" no, can't see it!! I didn't know that they wanted to continue with the show when Bob retires.

Oh well, life goes on!!

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/12/27 18:02

Mew, I didn't see the posts and had to go back to the link to see what you were talking about. There certainly was an array of comments...from both spectrums!

But I pretty much agree with you. I'm not crazy about how over the top she can be at times.. trying to get a laugh.. I definitely can't see her doing the Price is Right.

I was on the WB site looking for something else and really just stumbled on the article.. I hadn't even been to the site before and didn't realize that people were posting comments about the articles.

Thanks for pointing it out. But it really is either anti or pro Rosie stuff..which isn't that surprising.

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by mazy - 2006/12/27 18:48

Rosie, Rosie, Rosie... I was never a Rosie fan, however, I must admit she started growing on me till... she behaved poorly with her comments about Kelly Ripa, and her over the top attack on the Donald. Her views may be interesting, but the way in which she has presented them lately is too, too much. She can be a bully, and it's not a very attractive quality.

As a host of The Price is Right... maybe... if she keeps her "views" to herself... LOL.

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by grizzlys4 - 2006/12/27 21:19

Nah, I also can't see Rosie hosting The Price Is Right. Wow! I've only ever seen Bob Barker host it.....it'll be weird to see someone else. I don't know who they could get that would still make it enjoyable without being too gimmicky or cutting edge. Hmmmm.....maybe they should just retire the show??

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/12/27 21:38

How about Chuck Woolery or Donny Osmond?

:P

Maybe Star Jones is available! :laugh: :laugh: :laugh:

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by Debby - 2006/12/28 12:22

You know me KPW. I would love Donny on anything! He has hosted 2 other game shows I think. I'm not sure what happened to them though.

One thing I know he would not like is moving his family to California. When he and Marie did their talk show there, his family continued to live in Utah and he flew back home every weekend to be with them. That was hard on he and his family and I'm not sure he would do that again. He has a thing about not wanting his family to live in Hollywood...I kinda understand that.

=====

Re:The View/Rosie / the Price is Right

Posted by tudin_girl - 2006/12/29 00:15

Rosie had posted something on her blog about this..in response to the questions and she said something like she would love to host the PIR, but they didn't want her.

=====