I have seen parts of the show. I think it was on when Home Makeover came on so I had to be careful switching back and forth between the commercials. What I did see was great. It looked like they were very serious about this contest because they have alot of money riding on it. I didn't see any name calling or trying to make people feel bad. It was very professional. Of course, all of singers I saw were quite good. Some of them were VERY good. I was shocked because some were working in a field other than music performance.

Is it a series? When will it come back on or is the contest now done? I didn't catch the end.

Your right about that there is no name calling LOL that's a totally different show and different judges.

:silly:

I came across this show while channel surfing, and thoroughly enjoyed it! I think the judges are wonderful! They manage to tell the hopefuls "they are not the one" with kindness ...and...encouragement. Some may leave disappointed, but not "shattered", as on "other" talent shows!:whistle:

Hey Nadia!!!

I love this show too!! I'm actually learning a lot about the Broadway scene which I think is fascinating!!!

I think the Grizz is just entirely addicted to Reality T.V.!!! :woohoo: :woohoo:
