
Rhonda on Oprah Today?

Posted by 1putter - 2007/03/01 19:48

:huh: I just saw on Oprah's website that Rhonda will be on her show today - apparently capping off a show about people who have made it through really hard times.

The show hasn't aired here yet so I'm not sure how it goes.

Just thought some people might want to know about it.

I didn't see anything mentioned on Rhonda's blog.. which is surprising..

I did check out the Oprah website..

Looks like she was a blip of several..

Here is a summary of her story.. (which is 2 pages and the end of the show..)

Our ABC affiliate sometimes replays the show late at night. I will try to check out the schedule..

The show theme was 'resilient spirits'..

I wonder if this is indeed good news for SO fans.. I'm sure Oprah knows of the positive things Rhonda has done and maybe will lend some backing into some sort of SO replacement.

One can hope, right?

Maybe it would be worthwhile to engage in the message boards over there!

Most of us agreed if anyone could save SO or bring it back in another format somehow.. Oprah and her production crew could!

For those in the D.C. area.. You can catch the rerun of the show at 1:00 a.m. on channel 7!

Not sure if Oprah is syndicated on various networks but it's on ABC here in the D.C. area. Might be worth checking your own markets to see if the show is rebroadcast..

I saw the Oprah show today... Rhonda was on at the end of the show... she spoke very quickly... it was the end of the show... her spot seemed very rushed.

I'm sorry I missed it. Was it a new show or a rerun. I hope I can catch it next time around. Rhonda's story really amazes me. I would like to think that Oprah was familiar with SO and thought it a shame such a great show went away. I know many people sent her email about the end of the show. I wish she would have intervened. Perhaps she was busy with her other projects such as Rachael Rhey (Ray?) or the African Girl's School.

It's been a week or so since I checked Rhonda's blog. I do think it odd that she would not mention an appearance on Oprah, even if it is small.

Rhonda Updated her website.

Rhonda talks about her feelings and experience being on the show. Andy Paige the original six from SO 1 was flown in to help Rhonda on what to wear.

I'm so happy for her and what a thrill!!! This is one experience she will never forget.

Congrats Rhonda!

I think that show really gave Rhonda a boost. She is so happy about it. I really hate I missed the program. If anyone sees that it is about to run a repeat, please post a notice so I can catch it.

Did Rhonda give any details about her life prior to the death of her parents? Had there been previous incidents of domestic violence? Was there mental illness? What did her parents do for a living? Where were they living when it happened? Who did Rhonda live with afterwards? Did Rhonda provide any details about when it happened?

Oh man. I'm so sorry I missed that one. And Andy flying in to help her? How very neat. I love hearing stories like that. I miss Starting Over. :(
