Wow! Thanks for popping in.. At least you give us hope... But it seems like B/M is setting it up to capitalize on the drama aspect moreso than the help..

Have you heard talk about this being an SO replacement of sorts? Or can you tell us whether the housemates will have any coaches or therapists to help them reach their goals..

Even SO housemates said that editing wasn't always accurate...and even misleading. Don't be so sure that B/M won't make you out to be a total 'you know what'!

I sure hope not... but I don't trust them at this point!

Your very welcome! Yes.... when I was told the pitch for the show I went in knowing how there are (reality shows) as far as cutting and editing...no..its for sure not a replacement of SO....its almost funny because I created my profile on here because I know that "bad girls club" may or may not show who I really am...so i want people to be able to have me at there fingertips to ask me whatever they feel they want to ask! I can only hope and pray that they show me as the not-so-perfect-women that i am...because i feel like i have alot to offer to the world and younger women around me...but if they dont thats fine! I've been thru wayyy to much in life to let what others think of me surmise my way of living and thinking! For legal purposes I cant explain to much of what went on in the house until it actually airs...but to put it legally lol we had to all deal with our problems on our own!!!

All the housemates have already seen the first episode...and its actually pretty entertaining....the tears and breakdowns will come later...but the first episode is an hour long...and I would not miss itn for the world! But hopefully whoever reads this...dont let television tell u who i am....im a very honest women and if anyone has any questions i will always be glad to answer!

I've edited the bulk of my original post... In thinking about it...I thought maybe it was too negative..

When I looked at Ty's profile..it bought out some negative thoughts.. My apologies to anyone who may have seen my original remarks and thought I might have overstepped boundaries.

I know we'd all love to have Ty contributing regularly if this show becomes a major topic here in lieu of SO.

I'm still a skeptic about the show.. I still think the show was loosely modeled on SO.. Here is a link where a question and answer session with someone in the industry... At the time the BG club was going to have 6 women... Even the columnist (Gael Fashingbauer Cooper) seemed to think it was going to be a substitution of sorts... the info is halfway down this msnbc piece.. (from several months ago)

It sounds like a cross between Starting Over and The Real World.

Some of the original announcements about the show indicated that some of the women would be women some would recognize...(i.e. from other reality shows or well known in some way for their behavior)... I'm not really into all the drama of most other reality shows...but I sure don't recognize any of the names or faces..

Does anyone else?

I was asked the question why on all my profiles I put my occupation as a "hustler" :

HUSTLER; aggressively determined person: somebody who works aggressively and determinedly, especially to advance his or her career

I hold no bars to the person who asked me this question...Im actually GLAD she did...because it made me think further about some things in my life! And how I want to be looked at and determine certain things!

BUT...considering its 2006...and where I'm from, my choice of words (even though I majored in Journalism) can sometimes get me in somewhat of a bind! But I cant apologize for who I am! I am a hustler...in a positive way now! My biggest Idle: Oprah, is a hustler to me...she has many different things going on in her life...many different ways she makes money just like almost every other person in America who is trying to make it! Hustling is the new word for Entrepreneur! When I said that I'm really not angry at the person who asked me this, I am sincere....because it made me think in terms of why I ACTUALLY still think of myself as a hustler!

Im sure you all can agree with me when I say that young america has embraced the hip-hop culture and language...and sometimes you have to let them have there way.....okay so u cant change the way your child is talking...flip it on them and just try to use it in a positive way! Hard I know! Because not all negative things can be turned into a positive...but its a start! So I really dont think hustling is a bad term anymore! Not to my generation anyway! Hopefully someone feels me on this! If not thats fine...just thought I would comment anyway!

Even though I had deleted my original inquiry... You were sincere enough to answer... I appreciate that and also your take on the word 'hustle'...

But I admit, I'm of the older generation now...Old enough to be your mom! and can remember hustling having the negative connotation!

I think we all look forward to your contributions toward what we may or may not see with regard to The Bad Girls Club.

You never did answer the question on another post regarding if you were implying Dr. Stan will have some part in the new show..

Thanks for coming back and clarifying... Hustling perhaps can still have a negative implication. Maybe you can call yourself determined...or a sales person. Being an Entrepreneur implies an honest work ethic.. Hustling brings to my mind illegal or unethical ways of taking advantage of people.

Well, let me just say that hustling STILL has a negative connotation today. And if someone is determined to call themselves by a title that holds those implications, then they have to take the good with the bad in terms of how they are viewed!

There are consequences for every decision, action, reaction, statement, etc. Some will take what they see on this show at face value and make judgements.....as is their right. Others may try to delve and "psychoanalyze" the behaviors/words. Either way, it's a choice to go on t.v. in this (or any) venue!

But the words chosen then and now are really a window to the soul. So, time will tell.

KP.....I missed your original comments.....but the promos for this show and it's premise are meant to cache in on the drama! You are not alone in your viewpoint of the show.....I'm sure the first couple of episodes will show the real purpose and direction.

OOOPS.....ETA so I'm not terribly off topic ;) :

I do welcome you, Ty, to SOT.

I thought it was interesting that in the thesaurus to my word processing program, "hustler" is identified as "a shrewd person who knows how to circumvent difficulties." And of course "hustle" is something that coaches commonly say to their players to tell them to get moving, be aggressive and work hard on the field. So the word has various meanings and implications, depending on the setting. In the context of this topic, I am interpreting the word in the positive way that originalbadgirl has said she intends it for herself.

I can appreciate the idea of borrowing language from the "kids" and seeing if it can be viewed in a positive way - not foul language or hateful words of course - but phrases that may have more levels than what they sound like at face value.

doxygirl....Thank you for not being closed minded about the various meanings of the word HUSTLE! Being where I'm from we tend to use words in ways that others may not understand i.e. slang...not all slang is bad...so I REALLY do appreciate your willingness to at least try and understand the other side of the fence rather than to just be plain ol' ignorant and stuck in the 1950's about how things should be said and done! I came to this site not hoping for complete perfection.but at least some sort of relief from the stressfulness of having my life taped the last 2 months....you know share some funny stories things like that....but some folks on here have nothing better to do then be negative and wanna talk about you and judge you rather then ask hey ...women to women...how are you doing...how was your day hey did u see when such and such did this or that funny thing! I NOW see what some married men feel like...always coming home to a nagging ass wife! LOL But I'm not going anywhere....if anyone still has any questions that are kool to ask i will answer them...lets get some real conversations going rather than bashing all the time k
For example...the time me and the girls went ice skating with these lil kids at the rink...or the time we went camping ect. ect. cause those were some funny a stories to talk about the more serious things i cant tell...
