
How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Tara - 2005/03/04 15:50

I am curious as to how/where people heard about the Starting Over Talk Website?

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by l2teach - 2005/03/04 18:10

Tara I heard about SOT on th SO site last summer . Some one posted a link to this site just before the official site closed for the summer.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by dbmcmommy - 2005/03/04 21:50

I believe I head of the site on StartingOvertv but I think it was in the fall, right after season 2 started. I know I wasn't her over the summer, even though I wish I would have known about it then. Just to think I missed out of several months of not knowing the Banditas!!!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Aquamarine - 2005/03/12 15:59

I heard about SOT on the Startingovertv.com MBs...so glad I dropped in to check SOT out...I just HAD TO register here...I am truly amazed at the outpouring of compassion, support, advice, and friendliness here...everyone here plays well with others! :laugh:

~Aqua~

Post edited by: Aquamarine, at: 2005/03/12 18:01

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by 2CENTS - 2005/03/12 18:38

Last year,2004 , when the original site was closed for the summer...I believe something was posted on that site.....the rest is history!!! :rolleyes: :laugh: B) ;) :P :lol: and that is when the Banditas came to be !!! ;)

Post edited by: 2cents, at: 2005/03/12 22:22

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by momof2gg24 - 2005/03/12 19:28

I found out about this site last year when the message boards on the main site we shut down for the summer Since this site has been a breath of fresh air.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hugs4u2 - 2005/03/12 20:30

I guess most of the oldest gals here all heard about it from SO site just before summer break :lol: :lol: :lol: :lol:
Think we were all in panic mode when we heard the other site was closing down.

A raft in the storm so to speak :P best move we made Tara. :)

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hsmom - 2005/03/13 14:46

Same here, found out from the main SO site advertised on the show. I guess the shuffle is on to find new homes for the summer, as I believe the message boards are shutting down again for the summer over there. Will there be reruns all summer of the show, too??

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Halfdollar - 2005/04/10 19:56

Yea, Let's get this question on top again and see what kind of answers are out there!

Anyone care to say???

Myself, like the original Members, found out about this site from the official Starting Over site when going off for the summer!

Been here ever since!

What about YOU?

HD

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by SoFan1 - 2005/04/10 20:23

I actually heard of the site in Kimbookout.com, there was some talk over there about this site.

Glad I came here it a really nice group. I never go to the Startingovertv site too mean.

Thanks Tara

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by netty - 2005/04/12 09:22

Was just surfing looking for a place to talk to women who like the show, hoping that I could connect with a compassionate group when compassion seems to be lacking in the world.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hugs4u2 - 2005/04/12 10:17

:laugh: welcome welcome to you new gals so glad you heard of our site... keep this going on top so we can see messages from more of the new ladies :)

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Halfdollar - 2005/04/13 15:39

YOU ARE RIGHT HUGS...with so many Newbies, it seems like their friend told them and they are telling their friends and so on & on & on!!!!

Remember when we first started and there were so few of us... say like FIVE! and Tara! She hung in there with us! And look at the site today..... getting ready to have Tshirts!!!!

So LET US KNOW Newcomers, HOW DID YOU HEAR OF THIS SITE????

Halfdollar

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by shauna3 - 2005/04/22 09:41

I just started watching season 2 on TLC and went to google to look for site BINGO!! I'm loving it. Shauna from Canada

=====

SEND THIS AGAIN!

Posted by Halfdollar - 2005/04/24 19:08

shauna--that sounds like a great path to take! Glad you are here on board!

WHAT ABOUT YOU?

How did you hear about the "STARTING OVER TALK" Website?

Tell US about YOU in Introductions, too! And under Local Section!

Thank You All!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hugs4u2 - 2005/06/03 12:28

There have being so many new members joining so I thought I would bring up Tara's question again.

We all love to hear about our new members and how to make this site fun for everyone :) :laugh:

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by supermom - 2005/06/03 15:55

Well as many of your already know, I learned about SOT from two members: l2teach and toothgal. I met them at the Mall of America. We were in line for the Starting Over tour. I was very fortunate that they lined up right behind me. It was a great day and I have been having fun on the site ever since. :laugh:

Post edited by: supermom, at: 2005/06/03 18:56

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hugs4u2 - 2005/06/04 07:09

supermom the old saying " Thing happen for a reason" sure put you in a good spot that day :)
I am a strong believer in God puts the teachers we need in life on our path to life road.

I know I have met my dearest friends not by something I did but something putting me in the right place at the perfect moment to meet them.

So glad you were in line and met our fellow sistars that day. :)

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by catsnbeads - 2005/06/04 11:36

:rolleyes: As best I can recall, I learned about this site last year when they announced the othaboard would be closing down, but it might have been earlier last spring. I'm pretty sure I learned about it on the othaboard ... or on another board that I found on the othaboard. I haven't found a way to check here for a date I signed up or my first post (which I'm pretty sure was some time after I registered). :unsure: :dry: So that's the best I can come up with for now! :rolleyes:

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Lainie - 2005/06/09 07:27

I went through a search engine to find out more information about the Starting Over house. I was just checking out all the sites. When I came to this site, I thought this is the place to be. This is a great site to get information about the show. Everyone seems to be so friendly here. Thank you for having a friendly site here.

Elaine

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by hugs4u2 - 2005/06/09 09:10

@}--->-->-----

A rose for all the great ladies here welcome to all the new gals.

:) :) :) :)

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mydogkat - 2005/06/09 12:30

I found the Starting Over Talk message board last summer after the SO board closed. I found it doing a Starting Over search on Yahoo. I have been saying Yahoo ever since.

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Kimreader - 2005/12/16 22:59

Tara wrote:

I am curious as to how/where people heard about the Starting Over Talk Website?

I heard about it on the board listed at the official SO site--the Reality TV Board Forum they send you to is a little rough for me--so i thought i would check this one out.

This is a much better fit---Thanks!

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Jessie - 2006/02/10 11:34

I heard about it from advertisement on TV. I love this show, I tape every show, every day and watch again in the evening when everyone else is asleep. i guess you could say i am addicted! I really feel it is the best show on TV right now.

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by patacake - 2006/03/21 21:01

I searched high and low, and found this site by a new web search for Starting Over Boards.:P

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by patacake - 2006/03/21 21:01

I searched high and low, and found this site by a new web search for Starting Over Boards.:P

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/03/21 21:43

HI ! Found this site by typing in startingover on Google!

Felt desperate to hear other opinions on the show-coz I already knew about "looking through your own filter" ! Remember how freaked I was when I "got" that! OMG !!! Made me wonder how ANY of us are able to communicate! Actually prefer the opinions contrary to mine -makes me THINK.

Now if could only learn to type with more than one finger -and how to stop double-posting!
S/O finally forced me to teach myself how to use a computer!

By the way, Ceilidh is pronounced "Kaylay":cheer:

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mliza - 2006/03/21 21:48

I just stumbled acrossed it one morning on tv when I don't usually watch it. I was sick, home, and turned it on, and there it was! It only took one viewing, and I was hooked. I found this website via surfing the net for SO websites.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mliza - 2006/03/21 21:51

duplicate post edited by admin5

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Debby - 2006/03/22 14:11

Ceilidh, I agree with you so much. I have watched SO religiously since the middle of the first season. At least I think that's when I started. Josie was pregnant at the time. I have taped every show since to watch in the evening. I got the digital recorder from Time Warner but don't use it since I'm taping and saving them all, since I'm not sure if this is the last season. Those tapes may be all I will have except a memory of those great people and the house.

I found this site by Google just a month or so ago. I have really enjoyed it! I know of noone who watches SO, except one friend who has tuned in a couple of times, so it is great to share with other fans.

Perhaps the administrators can assist me with this unpleasant question. I'm praying it doesn't happen, but what if SO does not get picked up for another season? How long will this website stay up? Will we get notice in order to prepare ourselves and say so long to the other members. I would hate to type in the address one day and discover no such address exist. I would be devastated. Will we be notified in advance?

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by startingoverfan - 2006/03/30 07:34

i learned about starting over from the starting over website. :)lol:)

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by lisa cola 15 - 2006/04/02 15:21

I heard about SOT from the website which I learned that from the show! :)

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by DRicha6809 - 2006/04/07 18:21

I was on the Starting Over site and saw that I could subscribe to this one. I went to this site and loved it, so I registered. I have found that it is just great and you do a great job with it.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by kyjo - 2006/04/21 17:56

I went to msn search and typed in starting over and chose the starting over.com and here I am

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Klewin - 2006/05/28 10:28

When the StartingOverTv site was down, i did a search to see if the web address had changed and S.O. Talk came up through my search and I joined.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by teklawgirl - 2006/05/28 15:24

I learned about it from Googling "starting over tv" and checking out every link it gave me.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by specialk - 2006/05/28 15:40

I was watching NBC one afternoon, and I just happened upon SO when the Couples Bootcamp was airing, but before the Season 3 women ever entered the house. I was hooked on Michael and Jaclyn's story. So glad to see they made it through and are getting married in a matter of days!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Cassie - 2006/06/01 08:39

Flipping thru the channels on TV saw Vansant and stayed there, L love her :P Wish I could go stay at SO house Just to listen to that Strong Black Womans

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by honeyspur - 2006/06/01 10:19

I saw SO in it's first season right when Nyanza showed up. I was a little facinated and repelled at the same time. After about three episodes I was hooked. When the second season started, I was trying my own Starting Over process. And by season three I accomplished a laundry list of things I never thought I could. Including remortgaging my home and using the money back to remodel it - top to bottom. It's appraised at twice as much now!!!

And I was afraid to ask questions that's why I never tried it!
Starting Over is a blessing!!!!

I came across SOT when it was one of three boards discussing the show - sometime last year. And it's evolved into quite a mature, solid community from what it started out as. Lot's of good times here - and more to come I imagine!:lol:

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Cassie - 2006/07/08 01:40

I heard about the site on the SO tv program. Can not remember what time of the year but I didn't have access to a computer. So I started as soon as I was able. Hoping it's not too late.

Cassie

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by ceilidh - 2006/07/08 02:37

Cassie wrote:

I heard about the site on the SO tv program. Can not remember what time of the year but I didn't have access to a computer. So I started as soon as I was able. Hoping it's not too late.

Cassie

Never too late, Cassie! Are you watching reuns now? If so, which season?

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mollyhm - 2006/07/30 02:06

This sucks, Ellen is replacing SO in my area, a new reason to sleep in. Massachussetts, yuck.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by desireedreamer2005 - 2006/08/07 00:25

Now I am curious as to the question....how many of those who posted in this thread still come to SOTalk?

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by wish - 2006/08/07 22:24

I have been here for over a year and i still like it here.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mejustme - 2006/08/08 13:45

well it appears that not many are here.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/08/08 13:51

Any wonder? (that not many people are here?)

So is in reruns, it's summertime and the show is over as we all have known for a few months now!

Further, now it's skipping again to the couples..and who knows how the rest of the next few weeks will play out.. I wasn't into the couples... and even I'm losing interest!

Gained some nice friends here though! Will miss the community..

I'm actually surprised it's had as much activity as it's had... I think this is a great site for the die hard fan!

I think I heard about SOT when I was on the original board last year and was invited to join!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Tara - 2006/08/08 17:20

PLEASE KEEP THIS THREAD ON TOPIC.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by deerkathy - 2006/08/08 21:40

I did a web search and found y'all - what a great site!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by honeyb - 2006/08/08 21:59

I found this site when i was recuperating from back surgery, it came on twice a day, so if i happened to dose off a little, i could catch it the next time. I noticed at the end of the show it said "Follow the houseguest to the web" or something like that. I did and got this site. I have checked them all out, this is the best one, clean, friendly, informative, just a great site!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by dallas80 - 2006/08/09 02:05

Thank you, Tara!

I heard about SOT by google-ing. The SOH website gave a few search engines to find message boards. Voila!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Starting Over Talk Forum - Starting Over Talk

FireBoard Forum Component version: 1.0.4

Generated: 3 December, 2008, 01:43

Posted by 1putter - 2006/09/07 18:52

I just happened upon the link on the OLD SO website. I never check it out any more but something made me go check it out to see if anyone was still active on it and I saw the link!!! Yeah! I just registered today and I'm so looking forward to chatting and staying in touch!!:woohoo:

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by mejustme - 2006/09/08 10:37

well 1putter, I hate to be the one to tell you that you may be a little late coming to the "party". Not much chat around here.

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by 1putter - 2006/09/08 11:40

:(Oh boo hoo I guess I'll just have to go through and read the old stuff and see what I've missed.
Thanks, mejustme

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Tara - 2006/09/08 13:39

1putter wrote:

:(Oh boo hoo I guess I'll just have to go through and read the old stuff and see what I've missed.
Thanks, mejustme

There's plenty of chat around here. This site its just as active as it was before the show ended.

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by lilstranger06 - 2006/09/08 17:15

I found out about this website by a friend on mine on myspace. I guess theres a bunch of sopprt there. Think this is a real cool site..big kudos.;

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by lilstranger06 - 2006/09/08 17:20

Oh yeah check out my page..if you whant too...<http://www.myspace.com/lilstranger1>

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by lilstranger06 - 2006/09/08 17:22

Oops! hope it works this time <http://www.myspace.com/lilstranger1>

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by 1putter - 2006/09/08 20:59

:) Hey thanks, Tara - that is soo good to hear! I look forward to having some time to move around and check it out. So far it looks like a very cool site ;) Yippeee!

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by desireedreamer2005 - 2006/09/10 06:26

Tara wrote:

1putter wrote:

:(Oh boo hoo I guess I'll just have to go through and read the old stuff and see what I've missed.

Thanks, mejustme

There's plenty of chat around here. This site its just as active as it was before the show ended.

Tara, not trying to start anything but this site is not even close to being as active. Just look at the Total Users. It says 1 today and 1 all week. When you look at the topics there are only new posts in like 3 parts. I am not saying it is anyone's fault, just that this is a starting over board and starting over is over. I think you really need a reality check and think about revamping the place. New title and look. If you got rid of the SO aspect of it, you might bring back some people. Otherwise you will never have more than 10 active users. It is time to move on dear.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/10 08:07

desireedreamer2005 wrote:

Tara wrote:

1putter wrote:

:(Oh boo hoo I guess I'll just have to go through and read the old stuff and see what I've missed.

Thanks, mejustme

There's plenty of chat around here. This site its just as active as it was before the show ended.

Tara, not trying to start anything but this site is not even close to being as active. Just look at the Total Users. It says 1 today and 1 all week. When you look at the topics there are only new posts in like 3 parts. I am not saying it is anyone's fault, just that this is a starting over board and starting over is over. I think you really need a reality check and think about revamping the place. New title and look. If you got rid of the SO aspect of it, you might bring back some people. Otherwise you will never have more than 10 active users. It is time to move on dear.

There are quite a few regulars here... and many of us post about other things and topics. I think if Tara revamps it, it could backfire.. I mean there are tons of message boards around.. It seems alot of people are enjoying posting about other shows now. Let it evolve naturally..

As far as the total users... The board was never very active on weekends.. And considering you posted in the very early Sunday morning hours.... what do you expect? I've noticed quite alot of new people signing up... Yesterday I think I saw that there were 8 new sign ups.. There has already been 1 new sign up today.. and it's only 8:00 a.m. here on the east coast. Look at the total users for this month.... September which is only 10 days old now.. is already well over the 1,100 mark!

This site is far from dead...but the fact that many were attracted to the site because of SO and SO's 'demise'... it's to be expected that activity will level off.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Tara - 2006/09/10 14:35

desireedreamer2005 wrote:

Tara wrote:

1putter wrote:

:(Oh boo hoo I guess I'll just have to go through and read the old stuff and see what I've missed.

Thanks, mejustme

There's plenty of chat around here. This site its just as active as it was before the show ended.

Tara, not trying to start anything but this site is not even close to being as active. Just look at the Total Users. It says 1 today and 1 all week. When you look at the topics there are only new posts in like 3 parts. I am not saying it is anyone's fault, just that this is a starting over board and starting over is over. I think you really need a reality check and think about revamping the place. New title and look. If you got rid of the SO aspect of it, you might bring back some people. Otherwise you will never have more than 10 active users. It is time to move on dear.

Why don't you move on "dear"?. That one new member this week is one new member in the past 14 hours not past 7 days. We have also had 1145 new people sign up in the past month. That's pretty active to me. Most sites are not as active on the weekends as the are during the week.

Why don't you click on the stats button at the bottom of the page. It will show you how many people access the site. An average of 578 visitors per day is a very active site.

If the site is not suiting your needs I suggest you find someplace else to go. There's no point in you being here with all your negative energy.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by desireedreamer2005 - 2006/09/11 07:23

Tara wrote:

We have also had 1145 new people sign up in the past month. That's pretty active to me. Most sites are not as active on the weekends as the are during the week.

Why don't you click on the stats button at the bottom of the page. It will show you how many people access the site. An average of 578 visitors per day is a very active site.

So you are telling me that 1,145 people signed up this past month and yet about 2 of those newbies posted?????? A person only has to look at that info that you provided to see that that is NOT true. And most sites are MORE active on the weekends because people aren't at work. Plus you have 578 visitors every day and yet there are days when no one posts??? Come on Tara, I can't believe you think the people here are that stupid to think that makes sense. See now it is just the principal of this whole discussion that is my point. This is a dying board. But you can change that and you refuse to see that. I just don't understand this. I know you will claim that I am just trying to start trouble. That is not my intent at all. Now all I want is for the nice posters that are here to realize that they are being mislead. Just answer this one question then. Why would 578 people visit and not post? All anyone has to do is look at the board and see all the dates are in June, except the games area. Which is the only active section, but not with 578 posters.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/09/11 08:53

Desiree,

Stats can be interpreted any number of ways.. This board and others that I've been involved were typically less active on weekends. I always thought it is because most people actually tended to chores and family activities on weekends... I have only been involved with 3 boards with any regularity. This one, the original SO board that the show had on it's official website and another family oriented website. I was regulars on all 3 and even the original SO board slacked off on weekends..

Since the server is the one who devised how the stats are computed and tallied.. I think it is a moot point. I've enjoyed this site mostly for the SO conversation, but also for the other varied topics that come up...

One thing I appreciate about this site... is that it has been pretty open to whoever wants to lurk or post.. as long as they behave.. The other sites you mentioned are pretty much closed communities.

And after the shenanigans at the original board last year during SO2... I was happy and very appreciative to have a moderated board to come to.

I'll be active to one degree or another as long as I find common ground with at least some other members. Discussing SO, television, movies (which would be a good topic too btw!), reality shows, etc... is a fun pastime..

Now that the new help shows are starting this week... I think it might provide a whole new array of things to chat about!

Maybe we can have a Dr. Phil, Keith Ablow Show, and Greg Bernhart (or whatever his name is!)forums... All will be dealing with problems and issues..

Anyway, I think as long as everyone feels welcome this site can remain active.

Good luck to you whatever you decide to do....

KPW

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Tara - 2006/09/11 09:54

I belong to many communities where I very rarely posts. I read the threads daily or a few times per week. I only post when some thing strikes me but I and the other community member consider me active.

I did re-check the 1145 number because it did seem very high to me. There have only been a little over 425 hundred members registering in the past month. The remainder of the 1145 must be people who are already registered who logged and and changed their profiles.

Desiree I could care less how you choose to interpret stuff here. But his site is quite active compared to many other sites I belong to.

But if you don't like you are free to leave. If you keep being so nasty the choice will not be your though.

Also please stay on topic this post was meant to be about how people heard about this site. Please begin a new thread if you feel the need to keep debating this issue. Any more posts about this topic post in this thread will be deleted.

Post edited by: Tara, at: 2006/09/11 09:55

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by equinox33 - 2006/09/22 00:58

Starting Over played on my local station until 09/11/06. Then poof, it was gone. I emailed my local affiliate station and complained. The respondent explained that NBC Universal or whoever controls the main feed was the one(s) who cut the show.

I then looked for the web page (<http://www.startingovertv.com>) and it just took me to the NBC page. No explanation. Just no more web page.

Granted, I just moved, so I've been distracted, but I saw no advance notice (on TV) about Starting Over being canceled and the NBC page certainly has nothing about it on its homepage (at least not that I could find).

So I used the search engine to find out where everyone else had gone who used to watch it (and perhaps misses it too)... and here I am. That answers the question of how I heard about SOT... well, specifically I found it via the "winzy" search engine.

I'm really miffed at how the discontinuance of SO was (mis)handled... and I haven't figured out if I want to personally boycott sponsors, start writing letters, making phonecalls or just what to do next. Yes, I can survive without SO, but why not get rid of some of the trash on TV and leave the actual HELPFUL shows alone?

<sigh>

I feel like if it'd been a guy's show, there'd have been all kinds of notice and warnings that it was going off the air, etc. (like Tony Danza's show's having been discontinued... we heard about that for weeks). Or maybe it was simply my local affiliates that didn't include mention of the discontinuance of SO.... who knows?!?

Eq

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by lynnstratton - 2007/02/21 17:52

Hi there! As a viewer, I began to hear rumblings about the show not being on any more, so I started to come to the SO site to check it out. I later received an invitation, perhaps from talking to Rhonda's people.

I really and truly miss the show.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Nadia - 2007/02/22 02:04

Hi and welcome to SOT lynnstratton.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by knoxcox - 2007/10/01 17:12

Hi...I'm Karen of Starting Over, season one. From time to time, I google my name...and there you where, today. I love to hear that fans of the show....still have an interest. Being on SO was a wonderful life experiance. I love to share the experiance and stories of the SO House.

=====

Re:How did you hear about SOT?

Posted by Debby - 2007/10/02 18:16

Hi Karen, I'm glad to hear from you here. We certainly used to discuss the hg in detail quite a bit when the show was airing. We do miss it.

I hope you are doing well.

=====