hmmmm well i don't know why my previous one came up blank!!

but anyway i said, that's awesome, i really liked jennifer.:)

she's an example of someone the SO house really helped, it's easy to forget that happens this season!

VERY good news.... she is sweet!! This shows that when the show chooses women with issues that can truly be helped, they have successes!!!:laugh: :laugh:

Found a picture of Jennifer at her December graduation from college with her fiance (Garrett).

I'm happy for Jennifer....she looks radiant! And I really am happy for Sommer too. It's great to get to a place in your life where you are doing what you want to. I do envy her weight loss!!!! lol But I'm not going thru the bypass, so lots of exercise and many, many, many months of hard work....maybe I'll lose a little bit anyway!!!! ;)

Jenn and Garrett do look happy. And it is such great news.

And you are right. Sommer looks great and happy. It is so great of her to post Jenn's pic on her site.

Thanks db for the update. She also mentions that she has another site that address is:
<http://www.myspace.com/1787845>. - She finds it easier to update her pictures at this new address.

Check it out. =)

Looks like it doesn't want to work. You might have to type it out in your address bar.

Thanks for those links all of you. Seems like a lot of the SO ladies are using those myspace accounts. I wish Josie could set her one up so we can see how she and baby Chloe is doing. Are those myspace accounts free I wonder.?.

They're free, but I'm having a hard time joining. I registered under my email address but haven't been able to log on. They keep telling me my email address is wrong!

The myspace accounts are free. I went over and joined and didn't have any problems getting in. I'll take a look and see what they mean by the email address being wrong.

Yes, my congrats to Jennifer also...saw her on a return visit...definitely had that "in love" glow going on!

Watched the rerun today...the BOR where she was told she would be graduating. Sometimes it's only by seeing the clips of "the way they were" that you really see how the SOH experience has changed the HGs! Jennifer was so angry and closed up when he arrived...to see that happy and relaxed smile on her face made my day! I am enjoying these reruns so much, noticing nuances that I missed the first time around...in all the women. This was the most "bonded" group of women, IMO.:)

I think that group was very close, however, I think that each group had their own special bonding experience. When I look back, I see that each hg had a unique way of speaking to my heart.

This past weekend I put an unlabeled tape into the VCR and discovered it was a SO episode. It was Dr. Stan asking Josie what she thought her best features were. She said her eyes. He began telling her all the great things about her, not just her eyes, that a man would find attractive about her. It was so touching....I sat there and almost cried realizing that I will probably never see new sessions like that with new hg. What a loss.

It is a comfort to know that Dr. Stan has a thriving practice in which he is able to help people everyday and Rhonda and Iyanla will also continue helping other women with their lives in some capacity. I still hope that their talents for what they do so well will be brought back to airwaves for our benefit.
