Even if Christina has been in the house for 2 months she could be 3 months pregnant. As tiny as she is, she might not even show for a couple more months. (Who knows, she could have had sex with Paul the night before she entered the house.) My sis-in-law weighed only 95 lbs when she got pregnant with her first and she didn't even show until 6-7 months. Then she had a little belly, had the baby, and was back down to 95lbs a couple of months after the baby was born. So, anything is possible. Hopefully, for Jackson's sake, she is not.

Pretty different from the way they handled Deborah's possible pregnancy...

This could be why Christina has looked so sickly lately?

yeah...and the period isn't even necessarily an indicator either. i have a friend who didn't find out she was pregnant until she was 5-6 months along cos her periods didn't stop until then, she and her bf had broken up a few months before. yikes!

hopefully this is just again blowing something out of proportion?!?! poor christina if she has two small children before she's 21.

Hmmm--initially I just thought she had a cold, but now, even though she's not scratchy voiced anymore, she just looks kind of tired all the time.

Which kind of goes with that first trimester. . . I hope not, though--hasn't she had wine with dinner???

You know what else? It would explain why she's been so irritated with TJ. I know I was hard to deal with once those hormones kicked in. . .

Ladies, I agree, but stress can stop a period to (happened to me) plus when someone is homesick they can show signs of flu like symptoms. (just a thought):dry:

I almost fainted.

My husband is forced to watch this with me every night when I get home from work. Even he almost fainted.

This poor girl is a train wreck. Just what she needs, another child to care for. No wonder she wants to leave the house. She claims she misses her son and family but, she's a liar and manipulates situations to her benefit. I think maybe wanted to leave before this got out...

What a mess if its true.:dry:

Yes, but Deborah had been claiming that she had been celibate for a long time and then they found out she was lying.

She is supposedly 20... But one of her websites for her 'escort' service advertised as her being 22.

What is Calif. drinking age? Maybe it's 18... In any case... I haven't noticed her drinking. I've seen Ally of course..and Lisa and also TJ (on yesterday's show in the kitchen with the chef.)

We don't know how close she is to being 21 and besides...she's seen and done much worse. I'm not condoning it... but I really have no idea what the Calif law is and if SO could be in trouble for allowing her to drink.

the only problem i see with it is the liability issue for SO. personally, especially since the legal age is um i think 18 or 19 where i'm from, i think it's pretty crazy that someone who is 20 years old isn't allowed to drink. yet it's allowed to drive a car, which as far as i'm concerned is much more dangerous, at 16! the law is pretty crazy...

This pregnancy scare will certainly put a wrench to Christina's efforts going forward. If she is pregnant, my fear is that Paul is doing a moonwalk from responsibility and used his friend Stephen(?) as a bodyguard to avoid talking to Christina. I'm thinking that's perhaps why Christina overreacted so with the ladies at the table. She probably senses Paul slipping away because of this pregnancy possibility. Even when she was telling Allison (?) how homesick she was, it felt loaded. Like there was more to it than missing her mom and Jackson. More like setting up groundwork to excuse herself from the house. Maybe she wants to go visit Paul, or terminate the pregnancy. Oh now there goes I with my speculations. Sorry, couldn't help it. Yeah, the devil made me do it. :evil:

Yeah, some of the same things ran through my brain a soon as I saw the previews and chatter about possibly being pregnant. I knew there had to be more to the story than her just being irked by how the roommate treated her on the phone.

Yes and it's very typical of roommates to act in cahoots with one another when trying to avoid someone. Didn't Stephen say that he'd have Paul call her back? (I'll have to double check that recap!) Seems like she kept implying that she wasn't going to call Paul back. But I could have misunderstood this part of the wierd conversation at the dinner table and the phone call itself with the roommate.

Yep, yep, you are onto something and it triggered something here. Stephen said he'd have Paul call her back. Yet, Christina reports it to the ladies as if it is up to her to call Paul back. Could it be she suspects Paul won't call her, and is setting it up so it looks like it is her keeping a distance? lawwwd!

Very sad, she's just not ready to have another child!!! Even if she isn't, since they chose to air this aspect of her life, they do need to deal with it and help her incorporate her lifestyle choices into becoming an honorable woman. I realize this (if it's true) happened before the show, however as a VERY young mom already, and with her admittedly struggling, she needs to admit that she again has chosen not to either use birth control (and not just for pregnancy issues either in this day and age of disease which she's very aware of!!) or to choose a man wisely. I do hope they help her learn what traits, etc. to look for in a man also!!

Jackee thank you for saying what I have been thinking for a while! We will not make it into the "Positive Only" threads!

I literally can not watch C in confessional because of how she speaks. At first I thought she just had a speech impediment but now I think she is doing it on purpose. Makes me crazy!

As far as her being pregnant-nothing surprises me on this show anymore. After all its all about the ratings this season. Would not surprise me if next week she gives birth to a two headed alien baby!

Also, a stripper having unprotected sex? Is she nuts?
They should be showing her having a physical for STDS!

I watch the show everyday on my lunch. I have only missed two shows this whole seasons. As we all know there is much that we do not see that goes on in the house but I am the kind of person who pays attention to who is drinking and who is not. I have not seen Christina drink once this season. Unless of course she was slipping alcohol into her punch cup. :)

It is very much a possibilty that she could be pregnant and not know who the father is with the lifestyle that she led. She also may not have wanted to discuss this until now so that no one would try to talk her out of having her baby. I really do not believe someone can go this long before they realize it is a possible they are pregnant. But everyone is different and a lesson I am learning in my life is I am not one to judge because I have my own problems, and I do not know everything.

I'm glad she isn't pregnant. She does not need that now. If she's missing periods it's from the stress of the change. When I went to bootcamp none of us had periods and didn't realize it until we had already missed. You get caught up with what your doing and that's the last thing you think about until one day it hits you "I missed my period". So I can see how it wouldn't dawn on her that she might be until now.

Ah, here are the spoilers for those of us who are watching for the first time.

Wow, looks like she didn't retain much of the lesson she learned the first time. Yes, I know birth control can fail, and I am too pragmatic to think that she would remain abstinate. One can, however, use different methods of birth control at once - that would make the likelihood of pregnancy VERY low.

(Both of them should have gotten themselves checked for STDs before launching an intimate relationship. I am not going to go any further down that road!)

Wow. How old was she when she decided to have a child?
I did miss that it was a decision. That said, I don't consider Jackson to be part of the lesson. Rather, I consider the lesson to be how difficult it is to make enough money and a good life for both her and her son without her GED and being a single parent.

And, it seems to me that she surely would have realized how to prevent pregnancy based on her past . . . um, profession.

We will never know... She'd only been in the house a month and she told TJ she'd had a period about 2 weeks before coming.. So IF she were pregnant, she would have conceived about the time she came in... She did have a boyfriend back home named Paul at the time. Presumably it would be his...

But as you will soon find out... (or I thought it was determined yesterday but I missed the first few minutes..) She's not pg.

Oooh I don' t think so. If she was ever found out to be having an affair with a crew member...well you remember what happened to Sommer.

No I think Christina's secret was something bad that happened in Las Vegas. Like she was beaten or raped or involved in a crime against her will.

You're right I think if it was anything with a crew member, or something that happened on the show, she would have been kicked off!!

We can speculate all we want what her secret might be, I like you think it was something in her past, like drugs or something (again pure speculation!!!)

My other feeling though is her big secret might have been her thinking she was pregnant, Iyanla never said anything, but if I remember right, soon after she gave Iyanla the note, that is when all the stuff (inconfessional and so forth) about her maybe being pregnant came out (going completely on memory... she could have given Iyanla the note with her secret after all of this)

That was just another one of my theories, cause like I said (as far as a memory recalls..." there was nothing mentioned, then she gives Iyanla this note with her secret, and then we have all this that she might be pregnant?? another reason I think this might be the BIG secret is Christina said she was so scared to tell Iyanla this, and then Iyanla says "well we will just have to take care of this, face it head on" (or something to that effect) so I am assuming taking the test!!!

anyway sorry to blab on I am just stating there are a MILLION things it could be, it never came right out and said what it was, that is just my speculation on things, I think her big secret WAS the whole pregnancy scare!! but so I can be more sure can someone please refresh my memory and tell me did she give Iyanla the "secret" note BEFORE or AFTER the whole pregnancy scare?? thanks oh one thing I forgot to put in there which my blabbing was the reason I think she was so scared to tell Iyanla about this, and that it was a big secret is, after all she was in the house to "stop the hustle," make a better life for her and her son, and then all along she thinks she might be pregnant...another person to take care of, which if you're tight on money it would be easy to fall in your old ways, not to mention she needed to get honest with herself and Iyanla, so I think she was laying it all out on the table!!
