
Reruns on TVOne

Posted by a0a094 - 2006/08/15 13:16

Reruns will go on...Spread the word...TVOne on cable is currently airing the second season of SO. Keep SO alive. Everyone who has TVOne please watch and let the station know you are watching. I would hate to lose the reruns too!

I don't currently have TVone. I am hoping we get it here soon.

I have sent an e-mail to my local cable channel showing my support and have asked if they will air Season 1 and later Season 3 of the show when they wrap up Season 2.

Me too! :(

I ought to check to see if my provider has it in their digital lineup.

We still have the old analog.. But the programming, channels, cost and even the hardware are different even though it's the same company! I think we'd lose some sports channels though if we switched to digital... in my house.. that would be a big deal! My husband enjoys his sports!

My local cable company referred my comments to TVOne at www.tv-one.tv

They invite viewer comment at their website so I made one of support of them airing SO and asked if they were going to air Season 1 and Season 3 later on.

It may be a good idea for all of you to also send them a message.

It seems like many members here did not see Season 1 so this may be a good opportunity to do so.

Debby,

Thanks for that link.

I went to a part of that site where you could see what channels it was on in my area.

It confirmed that it wasn't available by my provider but gave me the option of requesting it from my provider. (standard form letter) and I had to fill in the blank.

What I found out in the form letter and I think I got a hint of it from an ad on the bottom of the site's page that this cable channel was at least originally aimed for black audiences.

I think maybe the powers that be there realize the full potential of this show to better lives.

Bravo to them! and hopefully they don't mind if they wind up attracting a broader audience!

I agree with you KPW. I think the fact that Iyanla is such an outstanding African American role model, that her role on SO may have caused TVOne to bring it on board.

Let's hope SO does well there.

It looks like TVOne will not be airing Starting Over past September 9? I heard on another message board and looked at their listings for September and it was not there! Could it be true?

It could very well be true...which means that it will end at the same point it did the last time, right in the middle of the season!! I only discovered SOH in reruns, so I seem destined never to see the second halves of #s 1 and 2!! Grrrr!!:(Having sad that, I WAS grateful to see the shows I had missed!!

I just looked forward in my DVR and Starting Over is back on the 18th. I don't know why they're taking a week break, but I think we should all write to TV One and tell them to keep it on the air. When they start messing around it's like they're experimenting on what works and what works is Starting Over for us.

That is really strange that they are taking it off for a week.

What is this TVONE that everyone is talking about?

Does it come with the Dish stelite?I have Comcast cable and am not aware of TVONE.I missed the first season of SO and the beginning of the second season.I am heartbroken that the show has been cancelled and would like to see the episodes i have missed.I haven't read all the posts but am assuming you cannot buy SO on DVD?

Ladybug, if you have Comcast cable you probably have TVONE and not know about it. It's channel 37!

SO will come back on TVONE. They have been airing SO1 for ages and just started with SO2.

Thanks ladies,

I have msnbc on that channel.I looked at the link and TVone isn't in Sacramento thru comcast.Go figure!

Has anyone ever downloaded the eppies from the web?

I have never done that and may have to if there are no DVD's to buy.I have never seen a SO DVD.

Comcast doesn't have a universal numbering system. Nor does Adelphia or Cox... You need to check your local programming guide. You can probably key it in yahoo tvguide.. or go directly to comcast's website for programming available in your area.
