Hey Manda. I hope I am remembering this correctly. If not, I'm sure someone will chime in and set us straight.

Jonathon was the guy that Josie was dating and had let use her car and who treated her very badly during her pregnancy, right? She was always on the phone with him and he was always making her cry. Well if that is Jonathon, that is not who turned out to be Chloe's father. The father was a very good friend of Josie's. I don't think they had been romantically involved but apparently there had been some intimacy.

I don't think they ever gave a name for this friend. When Josie came back to the SOH the last time I think she said that the father, her friend, was not close to Chloe and she was disappointed with that.

Keep check as I expect others who remember more of the details will give some more info.

I watched a Summer rerun where Josie said she'd gotten mad at Jonathan and decided to "get back" by having sex with a childhood friend. And, another one where Josie said she'd keep her baby if she were white. Making Jonathan the father, I thought. And, meaning that her friend was black. Then, the day Josie gave birth, and she said that she didn't know which of three men could be the father, I thought she'd been running around on Jonathan with two black men. I later found out that her friend, who turned out to be the father, was white. And, that the black man was a one night stand.

Yes, you are both right. Josie was wondering between Jonathon, the one night stand guy and the friend who was the father. The friend turned out to be the daddy.
