
Christina's photos

Does anyone know who Christina's beau is who appears in photos with her on her blog? From reading the comment section, the two are in love. Is this the guy she was dating when she first came to SOH, the SOH crew member, or someone new?

Think it is her boyfriend she was dating before she came to the house.

I think it was someone different.

I think she wound up staying in L.A. for a time...with a new relationship. (that was rumored to have been with a cameraman from S.O. who was married with a child.) It was also rumored that she worked for Karine Steffans for a short time while out there.. Then she moved back home. Her first myspace acct... never mentioned James. (James was not the person's name with that she called the guy that she had only met a month before coming to S.O.) She called that guy from the S.O. house a couple times and it seemed that relationship looked like it was on the way out at that point. Anyway... Her first myspace acct was very different from her second. It could have been the same acct..but for a time she had closed it.. Right before she closed it... she was getting alot of lewd messages from guys..(she had the power to edit them..) and someone said she put some really racy shots of herself up on it...

I think she went a bit crazy for a time after she left SO..maybe it was too overwhelming.. It sounds like she was doing better once she moved back to N.C. I think she was at least for awhile working for her dad... (and also trying to sell stuff on ebay!) It looked like she was trying to break into modeling and that might be why she had a professional photo shoot for a portfolio.

I hadn't heard anything about her really doing anything towards the end of real estate though.. or actually going back to school. She was showcasing some of her new paintings and trying to sell them on ebay... as well as crocheted hats and lip gloss!

No idea where she met James... but I assumed it was in NC. (I'm positive it wasn't the guy she was seeing last year while she was in the house, but I can't remember the fella's name. I can probably find it in the archives section of the forum...but don't know if it's still available. I'll check!)

His name was Paul... (she dated him for about a month before coming to SO).

I wasn't able to find it very readily here but was able to check out the blog at another site that had recaps by month. It was mentioned in both Oct. and Nov.

I believe the guy in the photo she is with is James. On her site one of the girls made a comment on the pictures and the guy in the pics being good looking and was known as James.

His name is James. On her MySpace site <http://www.myspace.com/70663534> there's a lengthy photo shoot of them, with several sexually suggestive poses. And, according to her bio, she's married and living in Ohio.

The link's fixed now. I'd left out the "http://" part.

I presume she's married to James. And, how long has she known him? Only a few months, I'll bet. But, she's always been one to jump pretty quickly into relationships. Married at 16. Then, a month into her "relationship" with Paul, they're "soul mates". And, now there's James. For how long, I wonder.

Christina may have known James for a while. James' myspace says he went to the same high school as Christina. Didn't she say her sister is four years older than her on SO. That would make her sister the same age as James. She may have grown up with him and just recently fell in love with him. They apparently started dating sometime between when she canceled her last myspace and started her current one. The last myspace said she was "single" and this one said "in a relationship" from the start.

Too bad she didn't finish high school and wait for James. Think of the "grief" that would've spared her. But, it's good he'd "have" her after what she'd been doing.
