
Bad Girls Club news... (new b/m show)

Posted by KPW1956 - 2006/11/01 19:29

Well, I've been watching for news and finally got a hit today!

Wikipedia of all places had the most info!

Seems that the show is set to debut on Dec. 6th

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Bad_Girls_Club

By clicking on the #1 by the date... there is a more recent article at Thefutoncritic.com.. (dated 10/18) The other futon critic link only provides the original press release from the end of May.

Here's a link... Info about the show is in the last 2 paragraphs.. It looks like it will be airing at night. (10 p.m.)and following it Campus Ladies.. at 11:00.

<http://www.thefutoncritic.com/news.aspx?id=7221>

I know many are interested in seeing how SO like it is... Here's your chance coming up in a few weeks. You'll have to keep me posted..as my provider recently dropped Oxygen!

One warning all..If you try to do a search on the bad girls club... You will get some adult sites at the top of your search results!

For tivo users... You might start scouting out info! I'm sure we'll start seeing plugs for the show soon. As of yesterday Oxygen didn't have any info on their site. It actually looked like it hadn't been updated for several months. I expect that it should get updated soon though..

Well that might be interesting....I'll check it out. My Directv tivo only has info for approx 10 days in advance, so I'll have to wait until the end of November to add it to my list. Thanks for keeping us posted!

I just copied this from my Oxygen Newsletter:

The Bad Girls Club: Opening Soon

A new reality series from the producers of The Real World. Seven girls, one house, extra attitude.

Premieres Tuesday, December 5 @ 10pm/9C

I was watching Rosanne today on Oxygen and saw some previews. It looks like it's going to be interesting. I learned that there are going to be 7 women in the house and they do a lot of swearing.

Personally I'm ticked .. :angry:

"BAD GIRLS" ??????

7 girls living in a house, instead of STARTING OVER ????????

What message does this give to those of us who watched Starting Over? We're BAD GIRLS ????? :(

Not sure if this is going to be a Help Show (Like SO) or if its for entertainment purposes only.

BUT STARTING OVER Is BOTH... a Help Show that's Entertaining and I For One Want It Back On TV.. Even if its on the Oxygen Channel as long as it gets back.

That's My 2 Cents, Take it or Delete it.. Hugs Janice (Yme)

I think it's going to be about women who were really bad, and need to start over to a good life. Having been a "bad girl" I'm really interested in how the "coaches" are going to approach the women. I'm a recovering addict, alkie with 22 years of clean/sober living under my belt. If what I am thinking they are going to do, it would be great to give some women who have no $$$$ like most of the women did (Except Rain & Cassie Bobblehead) on SO. If anyone needs a hand up, it's someone who kicked them selves off the curb and needs to get back up so they can lead a decent life.

I think just the title "Bad Girls" tells me this show will not be close to the quality of SO. Can you imagine the life coaches from SO calling their show some propogandistic title like that? I would not get your hopes up.

I agree...

I added to a new thread somewhere but the title got changed..

I think Moondreamer posted about the same time I was trying to about the new info..

Check out Oxygen's main page...and click on the show info

<http://oxygen.com/>

If you click on the video clips.. It will show you something pretty funny or stupid depending on what you typically deem funny!

(a bunch of barbie representatives... with a scene of what the bad girls club might look and sound like..) (It's like Gumby!)

I did also want to point out originally B/M had said there were going to be 6 women in the house..in L.A. no less... Maybe they changed the number to 7 so that it won't be quite a copycat wannbe.. of SO.

I seriously think B/M used this to be a spin off or new version of the old show...and created it to reach the market already over saturated with other drama based reality shows..

SO was in a class by itself. Wasn't perfect..But it had a better point and the audience could take something away from the lessons.. the women were getting.

I understand about helping women who've had problems in their lives but calling it "Bad Girls" is what I have a problem with.

Even Recovering Addicts (me included, 20 yrs clean) shouldn't be called "BAD GIRLS"

We did Bad Things, We are NOT Bad GIRLS....

I dont know, to me it seems as if your called something Long enough, you start to believe it and Who can Get to be a 'GOOD' GIRL IF you've been labeled 'BAD' your whole life..

Anyway that's what I have a Problem with, now STARTING OVER gave ALL of us a chance, GOOD OR BAD to Start Over and NOT be Labeled to get that Help...

Labeling is my problem and the name "BAD GIRLS" makes it seem that if you get Lucky enough to be helped on that show, You're a BAD PERSON aka "BAD GIRL"

Just my 2 cents, take it or delete it..

Hugs Yme

Oxygen has a whole theme built around women being bad girls...

If you look at the list of shows they have... they seem to concentrate on the outrageous or controversial..with much of it's original programming.

<http://oxygen.com/tvshows/>

I haven't heard that these women will have anything resembling life coaches or counseling.. More likely than not... the producers are banking on the drama...

They aren't out to help anyone but their bank accounts!

I'd be interested in finding out who they might have in the house to begin with.. Some supposedly are known from elsewhere in entertainment... or other reality shows..

Im really tired of these shows going " sleazy" for ratings . As much as i knew, Starting over was an addictive show because we all could relate to it , we all picked things out that we could apply to our lives . It had such a huge following here in NY, i just dont understand . Ive heard about this new show, and i too (like YME) ,am feeling that this new show will be ,at the very most, entertaining and of little comfort or help to women like us . I have not been the same since SO ended...IYANLA HELP !!

I'm glad that I decided to subscribe to the newsletter. I'll definitely watch "Bad Girls" at least for a while without any expectations. I miss SO, Rhonda, Iyanla and Dr. Stan. I got to where I would write down the Life Coach Tip of the Week and keep them for future reference. With the Thanksgiving holiday right here, I am trying to remember to accept everyone and what they say at face value rather than impose my emotions into the situation. My mother-in-law says I have become too "direct" in my conversations and I close my eyes and thank SO - all three seasons - for giving me the courage to ask for what I want and speak up for myself.

Happy Thanksgiving, everyone.

I just now watched the Oxygen video. I rarely do that cause I'm on dial up and it takes for bleedin ever, and usually not worth the wait.

That blurb seems to be aimed toward Men's fantasies. The sillhouettes (sp?) with the upturned boobs, The sensationalist announcing, just the whole video in general seems like a toned down Mitchell Brothers style of "art." Plus, the title of "Bad Girls Club" really is exploitive.

Too bad Bunim died. I think SO was her baby. Murray looks like a slimey toad.

But question- If abusing drugs and alcohol, or being a gang banger, or hooker doesn't make you a bad girl, what does? I've been one or two of those things myself. I mean, really, define what a bad girl is.

Please excuse me if I'm taking this the wrong way, but I am Rain and Starting Over helped me alot and I did deserve the help. I'm off of welfare, out of the projects, I'm a Certified Dream Coach and I'm preparing to relocate to Florida to attend The Art Institute. Life coaching does work and so did Starting Over!

No, certainly I was not saying that Rain & Cassie didn't deserve help. I was simply commenting that most of the women on SO could have afforded a private life coach, but a couple couldn't

I was trying to say that it's hard for "bad girls" to get help, because usually they don't have $$ to pay for help because of the lives they've led. I am hoping this new show will be a hand up for women who couldn't otherwise afford professional help. And I hope the women on the show will take advantage of the opportunity and not blow it like at least one woman did who didn't keep the good job she had.

Yepper, SO was Mary Ellis Bunim's brainchild. If she hadn't died of breast cancer, I'll bet the show would still be alive and well. And, more like the first season, with less drama than the last two. Having breast cancer survivor Allison on SO was Jonathan Murray's "tribute" to Bunim. But, IMO, a far better tribute would've been to continue SO in the spirit in which Bunim began it. Real women getting help. Instead of turning it into a drama fest. And, replacing it with Bad Girls, produced by a man for men. Just the name sounds like something better suited for Spike TV than Oxygen

Define what a bad girl is.

Probably the kind of gal Murray thinks men want to watch on TV. A group of silicone chested divas clawing each other's eyes out.

but the colors and furniture they chose in the house...OMG that alone would drive me nuts!

Sorry about double post. Just went to the interview with Jim Murray site. Yuck. He sounds like one of the guys who loooooove to go to mud wrestling matches. He's nasty. I'll check out the show, but after reading his interview statements, any hope of having a recovery oriented show seems dim now. I wish they kept that guy on NBC who was a life coach and went to people's houses. He also took some kids to meet Antwone Fisher. He used to own a football team, which seems like an unlikely person to be a life coach, but he was pretty good. They should have had him open his own house, and be a boss coach to other coaches.

Bunnim-Murray, (sp?) must be turning in her grave!

I won't watch a second of it and frankly it embarasses me that it has a connection to SO.

WOW! some..not all can be nasty! lol well to clear the air I'm Ty...and I was cast as one of the 7 women picked to live in the "bad girls" house...the show is not an any way similar to Starting over....its a show dedicated to the "vixens" of bad girls....we (the 7 women picked to live in the house) have all had some serious rough times in our childhoods and leading up into our adult hood...so we were brought together to basically look into a mirror and try to overcome some of the things that have held us back in the past! no...there are no life coaches...and I can honestly say that the 6 other women I lived with were far from perfect but actually beautiful women inside and out! So i hope u all watch for yourselves...and dont be so quick to judge...i guarantee there will be at least one women in the house whos character and personality you will grow to love!

Just to clear it up... SO was produced by B/M but distributed by NBC Universal Studios... In my market it was shown on an nbc station..but I understand that it was also sold and shown by some other networks..

SO was not tied into Oxygen at all... There were a couple cable networks that showed older seasons as reruns.. Nameley TLC showed part of Season 1 and also tvone showed reruns of the first and second season.. But they too dropped the show.

I'm not a fan of RealWorld.. so the comparison doesn't reassure me at all.

Ty, Were you familiar at all with Starting Over?

I know that SO is a product of bunim/murray I worked closely with there producers so we were very aware of what shows they produced! What I meant by connection was as far as the synopsis of the two shows...there are NOT alike! From the same creators YES....but not the same storyline! You dont have to be a fan to watch Bad girls club....Im hoping thru all the fighting and bickering of our show....that some young viewers will take some of our stories and see that there is still hope....somewhat like the real world because we have to live together and have our lives taped in an everyday setting....but at the same time we all work towards our goals mentally and physically to try to change things that held us back! The house has some VERY VERY courageous women! And I KNOW its gonna be a hit....because I lived with some of the strongest women I have ever met in my life who have overcame some serious things in there lives!

And yes...I am familiar with starting over...and Dr. Stan for that part (stay tuned for that segment) WOW!

By saying there will be no life coaches, does that include no counsellors, or regular, trained help. I don't see how a group of unhealthy individuals can train themselves to be healthy, when they've never learned what healthy is or how to achieve the goal of being healthy. It would be like the illiterate teaching each other how to read.

Well considering I cant really say what I want about some aspects of the show (though it kills me to keep it in) lol yeah its defenitely no SO! Even though thats how it was pitched to us (casts) in the beginning....in the end we all ended up pretty much figuring things out about ourselves from living with 6 other "edgy women".....

Okay let me ask for some clarification on a couple things.

So there are no life coaches, therapists or anything??

The women are just living together like on Real World and hopefully they will want to help themselves?

This has been asked several times, so I will ask once more...

You intimated that Dr. Stan is involved in some way or at least for one show, so is he or isn't he??

I would say from all the rancor I have seen in the other threads that once the show starts it will just got worse. Even though I find it interesting to have you here Ty, I think the advice you got about staying away from the message boards is sound advice. If you are arguing with the women here, I can't wait to see what would go down if you posted on the realitytv site. Now that group will no mercy.

Good luck Ty.

Re:Bad Girls - 2006/11/27 16:32 WOW! some..not all can be nasty! lol well to clear the air I'm Ty...and I was cast as one of the 7 women picked to live in the "bad girls" house...the show is not an any way similar to Starting over....its a show dedicated to the "vixens" of bad girls....we (the 7 women picked to live in the house) have all had some serious rough times in our childhoods and leading up into our adult hood...so we were brought together to basically look into a mirror and try to overcome some of the things that have held us back in the past! no...there are no life coaches...and I can honestly say that the 6 other women I lived with were far from perfect but actually beautiful women inside and out! So i hope u all watch for yourselves...and dont be so quick to judge...i guarantee there will be at least one women in the house whos character and personality you will grow to love!

Re:Bad Girls - 2006/11/28 17:04 Yes, but many, many of us have had horrible childhoods and other life-challenging issues and have NEVER been disgusting!! While I agree that people can indeed grow and change behaviors, I do not agree that it happens when several are just thrown together to "miraculously" learn and change. This approach has never worked in that way.....ask anyone who's in child development, education, therapy, etc.

Yes, it may make good t.v., but a serious intervention and learning show it is not! Does that mean nobody should watch it? Of course not.....there are Reality Shows on just about every subject out there. I just disagree that this should be promoted as any kind of self-help show!!

MY RESPONSE TO GRIZZLY.....

WOW! You guys are tough huh??? lol You know when speaking to a few of my producers last week in L.A. we were warned to stay off of the reality sites because basically of peoples comments like grizzlys4!

But being the "rebel" that I am I refused because I wanted to be able to interact with people that watched the show and get feedback! But one thing as a women I will NOT tolerate is someone who disrespects me!

1st: Me and my roommates are FAR from disgusting women!
2nd: I DID NOT make the pilot for this show...soooo coming at me about how much the show looks like this or doesnt look like that is irrelevant as to why I am here!(Im was only casted as a resident...not promoted as president of who decides what the hell the show is about) trying to keep her cool
3rd. This show is NOT being portrayed as a self-help show! DUHH
(as i have stated in many of my other comments left on this site)

Now...I am willing to answer any questions...but One thing I hated growing up was people who judged you! I was always taught not to judge people because no one is perfect...look at your own backyard before you decide to sit on some website all day and judge others! That makes u no better then the person your judging! And how can you say that throwing women in a house together can not help anyone...SO WHAT! you didnt live there so you dont know WHAT some of us may have learned from one another...I have lived in group homes and foster care since i was 13...and I learned alot! I just wish that one day we'd live in a world were people would stop being so nosey to other peoples world and start noticing there own! You dont have to like me...I DONT CARE...what you eat doesnt make me Sh*t.....BUT YOU WILL RESPECT ME!

I am happy to see that "TY" aka HUSTLER knows how to cut and pastes it does make some good reading material for her so called "FANS" lol But we all know AND I'm sure if any of them do come to see what was written here they would see that she came in here and started this mess.

I don't think the show helped her at all. Now that I have seen some of her comments around here she's sounds to show her true self as a 2x phony loser and from what I understand how much she likes being called a HUSTLER lets add that!

Now she can cut and paste this anywhere she likes! BTW.. I DON'T HAVE TO RESPECT YOU!

I have absolutely NO intention of watching a minute of this disgusting show, especially now that I have been exposed to "Ty". She sounds like a loser.

Even prior to Ty, the way the show has been promoted makes it sound like a sensationalized mud fight. I don't know why anyone would compare it to SO - they have nothing in common.

I hope the ratings are so low it is cancelled before completing the first season.

At least we still have this format - another good remnant from SO.

From reading her blog I see her as an ignorant, uneducated but well paid prostitute who wants to remain an ignorant, uneducated but well paid prostitute, unaware that the pay scale drops significantly once crows feet appear, and will end up in the slums because she also does not know about investing the money she gets wisely. How special.

I personally think that it would be in everyone's best interest to just go ahead and ban Ty now, since you know it will happen anyway. You can tell she is only here to stir up trouble.

Bad Girls looks to be just BAD.:P

She says she wants respect. Respect is not a given, it is earned. Maybe she could help us along with that by telling us what there is about her to respect. Either here or on her blegggh, er, ah, blog.

Isn't it funny how it's usually the low lifes that scream about hating to be judged? I'm not perfect by any stretch of the imagination, but I consider negative judgements about me to be constructive criticism.

Ty's just an attention whore. Goes on "Bad Girls" for the attention. Joins MySpace for the attention. Writes blogs for the attention. Trolls this MB, and probably others, for the attention.

And, she thinks she can get it by going on some trashy "reality" show that's geared toward showing a group of women on their worst behavior? I'll bet she thinks "Bad Girls" is TV at its best. But, until she posted her description of this show, I had no idea how disgusting it really was. Or, how low Jonathan Murray had sunk.

I kind of feel sorry for her. I was able to glean a bit of her background...and she probably has had to act up or out for attention while she was growing up. If she lived in various foster homes.. she might have been stifled and it letting loose making up for lost time.. I think a few years out in the real world and she'll be settling down and being a bit more realistic and kinder.

I noticed she didn't have many posting to her blog.. She might be wearing her friends out too..

Most of her friends are probably tired of her mouth.. and she more than likely has been on a huge ego trip about being on a reality show. I think she's all talk...

To her most likely: Any attention is better than NO attention.

I think she made us not want to watch the show rather than her original intention of visiting SOT.

I'm not excusing her boorish behavior.. Just saying she has some real issues... and is still very very young.. It seems obvious that her 2 months in the Bad Girls Club didn't do anything but encourage her bad girl attitude.

As for wanting to help young girls in situation she herself was in growing up (foster home and drug addicted mother).. She needs to realize she needs to be a role model.. and having such a chip on her shoulder will work against her.. and that maybe just at this point in time.. she's not ready to tackle that. (mentoring) Well, maybe she has 2 personna's????

She needs some counseling to resolve issues... Clearly she is insecure.. When you attack people like she did.. she wants to feel superior... because she lacks self worth.. At least that's my take and mho. The fact that none of her friends have commented on her page the last time I looked... (about the blog) leads me to believe... they might actually agree with us!

She is full of herself.. So sad.. But not hopeless.. Hopefully fallout from the show... good or bad..will help her to grow up a bit.

My oldest is her age.. and I see alot of other kids that age...still trying to figure out who they really are...and what they really want in life.. Fortunately my son has a good sense of self.. as do my younger 2.

TY needs to figure out what she really wants out of life.. I'm sure she won't always want to be known as a 'bad girl'... I think she'd get mightly lonely... or be out done... by the next wannabe 'bad girl'..

I checked out Oxygen again this morning and clicked on more info for Bad Girls Club.. There is another new clip.. It starts out similarly with an abstract..but then goes into about 10 minute preview of the first show.. You can see the women arriving, greeting one another and checking out their rooms.. (amazingly SO like!) The the first 6 women are gathered in the living room area and talking about their 'issues'.. and goals.. At that point Ty had not arrived.. Maybe the women themselves thought there were only going to be 6 of them...and #7 winds up being a surprise to all of them! Not sure but the bedrooms I did see all had 2 beds in them..

Funny thing this morning.. When I was getting ready to exit Oxygen something caught my eye... I saw the morning's schedule.. and I saw that something called Starting Over was on at 8 this morning,... My heart did a leap...and I went back to the page.. But I think it was the 79 movie Starting Over.. starring Burt Reynolds and Jill Clayburgh.. I can't confirm that.. but it started at 8 and went until 10... I no longer have oxygen... so can't be absolutely sure..

If you are still wondering about TBGC check out the lengthy clip. No fighting!

I have been keeping tabs on Ty's site and her newly created Myspace just promoting the Bad Girls Club..

<http://profile.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseaction=user.viewprofile&friendid=129781906>

there is listed almost 2700 friends... I imagine she just sits there and adds people left and right to make it look like a big following. The show hasn't even debuted yet.

There are at least 3 people who recently posted who 'claim' they were in the house too..

One, Jodie... I checked her Myspace out..and she's from Baltimore... and has alot of pics on there from her time on the show.. I didn't even bother checking the other ladies... I'm pretty sure that at least a good chunk of the pics are from

TBG. But maybe not all.

Ty has the font so small on the names you can't read the 'friends' names that correspond with the comments.

But I'll link you to Jodie's..

No loss to us...

I was there today too.. I think I provided the link of the site she created.. If she makes that private than all that work is down the drain for nothing ... Must have taken hours and hours to get all those friends..

If you go to Jodie's and probably the other one you found... You can link up to the other women's sites..

I hope this show bombs! It would serve B/M right!

I'm going to watch, just out of morbid curiosity. It comes on at 7 pm on satellite here What gets me is that Oprah owns that network (well, a third of it, anyhoo), and she's always spouting all that positive spiritual stuff, much like Iyanla did, and she's allowing this stuff to go. Very few reality shows are for self improvement. Actually, since SO was cancelled, are there any? DTV doesn't get Style Network, which, according to another site, has a show called Shopaholic 911, and the shopaholic who was on and graduated (miraculously) at the end of season 4 was on that show.

The most tragic reality show of all was Fixing Bonaduce.

Re:Bad Girls Club news... (new b/m show)

Well maybe there'd be hope if she owned a majority of the company.. I'm sure she was bought in more as a name recognition to get the station off the ground. I wouldn't be surprised if they gave her the third...

I found the founders page on Oxygen..

<http://www.oxygen.com/basics/founders.aspx>

Oprah's description that she wanted somewhere where she could kick off her shoes.... And that is the show that they air or used to air.. Oprah after hours. I doubt she has any input on Oxygen's shows.. Although I wish she did... Maybe she does, but she's still a minority voice.. Sounds like the CEO is the main decision maker.. Oprah being a cofounder, could just mean she helped bankroll the project or would lend her name and after hours show. I mean it was a neat concept .

i checked Oxygen's schedule and looks like the Oprah after hours is now only shown on Saturday afternoons.. Once a week seems odd since it used to be on much more frequently or seemed to be.

I seemed to recall earlier on in the networks life..that they used to show positive movies..and some of Oprah's were shown on there. Both those she starred in and those her production company created. I don't remember seeing any in a long time!.

I can't find anything to reflect any current involvement other than the after hours project once a week. She's listed strictly as cofounder even in the wikipedia.. Oxygen was someone else's dream..and I just think she was bought on board.. for publicity.

I found this link rather funny reading. It was written early on in Oxygen's debut season. Talks about the programming and intention of the network.

Seems like much has changed.. although I think the network wasn't quite the author's cup of tea...

<http://archive.salon.com/ent/col/mill/2000/02/22/oxygen/print.html>

Now I know why they show the particular sitcoms they do... They were projects that the CEO was involved with... So I am sure she's partial.. Marcy Carsey's projects too! (since she was listed in the founders page!)

While searching... on this topic I notice that rarely were the other 2 women mentioned.. Especially the CEO... Marcy Carsey's name I recognize from her string of sitcoms.. I'm sure the station is fine with using Oprah's name... It is a household name..and people would give the station more credit by being in anyway associated with it. I just hope she pulls the support soon. I see the station going down a negative path... Especially compared to the roots of it's original programming.

Thanks for the links, KPW. Excellent critique of the Oxy. net. Great sense of humor. That was the best review of any show or network I've ever read.

Watched Bad Girls last night. It's on at 7 here. Still had a difficult time staying awake. It should be called The Lowlife Wallow Club. First show and they've all got their alliances formed. From now on it will be a contest to see which alliance can sink lower than the other. Loved the Alkie in denial though. Let's see if she lives til the end of the show.

I noticed Ty's new Myspace for the badgirlsclub may not be doing too much or going anywhere.. Last comment was Dec. 5th.. Pretty much the typical 'thanks for the addy' and generic comments..

Looks like she stopped adding friends just under 3000! Maybe she recognizes an exercise in futility when she sees it..

Aside from the variety.com review.. I haven't seen any chatter about the show..Even at Realityworld...

Since I don't have Oxygen anymore.. I don't know how well they are promoting the show..

OMG, just checked the websites show page..and they are actually promoting people to sign up to be part of the Badgirlsclub...

It's almost laughable if it wasn't so absurd.

<http://www.badgirlsclubonoxygen.com/>

Anyone up for seeing show # 2? I think Oxygen ordered 22 episodes... Not sure if it will be weekly or what.. See if it makes it past January. Especially if it starts pulling down more bad reviews like Variety's...

Re:Bad Girls Club news... (new b/m show)

Posted by moondreamer - 2006/12/16 21:06

I wonder if the show is getting any decent ratings. But the network is keeping Campus Ladies, and that show about women who murder, so why not bad girls club? Yes, there is a place for everyone on TV, including human female sewer rats.
