
SO Latest?

Posted by TetheredinNH - 2007/01/21 12:52

Does anyone know if the actual women from so are members to this site? Also, is there ANY new news or even rumors of the show coming back, reran, picked up by some other network? I can't believe no one would grab the chance to take this show further...I mean really now with shows on E like Dr. 90210?????...it has to make one think was it a male choice because this was such an instrumental show for empowering WOMEN. I'm not against men by any means but one really needs to think and think hard. A women developed it and took it as far as should could UNTIL her death 2 years ago. Makes you wonder if nothing else.....

Welcome to the board. It's good to hear of another story in which SO helped change a person's life.

I'm not sure if SO hg are members here or not, since we have user names that protect identity. There have been people who claimed to be family members of hg who have posted.

It' a great place for SO fans, even if the show is not still in production. I for one will always keep up hope that someone will come to their senses and pick the idea up again.
