'Bachelor' producers confirm Lorenzo Borghese, Jennifer Wilson split!

Here is that story by Steve Rogers, 01/23/2007

"He's gone back to Sadie. They're spending time together," a source close to the New York City cosmetics entrepreneur reportedly told Us last week. "Sadie is moving to New York City, where Lorenzo lives, to pursue her career."

I didn't think that Lorenzo couldn't have contact with the other girls that he didn't not pick but I guess I was wrong.

It's too bad for Jen cause I thought they made a good couple.. but I also thought Sadie would of been good for him too.

If Lorenzo and Sadie become a couple I do hope this one works out.

I didn't catch the show, but, Sadie must have a very forgiving spirit. I think that I would not be so generous if he had booted me out for another women on national tv. Then after finding the one he chose to not be his cup of tea, come knocking on my door.

I don't know if that's devotion or desperation.

What I find amazing is that every time I see an interview with one of the contestants of these dating/marriage contest shows, the contestant says that they went there expecting nothing. However, when they appeared on the show it seemed as if they were devastated when they were not picked.

I guess it's one way to meet people and get your name out there if you have other aspirations.

Yup, don't think that I would take him back if he dumped me.

Sadie was my choice... I was surprised that Lorenzo chose Jennifer... I just never saw passion or any spark between them.
