
Beware!

Posted by KPW1956 - 2007/01/26 10:43

A troll or a spammer is possibly in our midst..

I've seen 2 separate links they've tried to promote and I bravely tried to go there to see if they are on the up and up... The pages won't open..and I can only think that it is because of my filters.

That leads me to think that these may be inappropriate sites... or perhaps even sites that might carry viruses..

Regulars here will know who I am referring to. Hopefully Tara or an admin can take care of it. Hopefully trace the IP address..

Better to not open those links..just to be on the safe side. Then again, if someone who already has credibility here really does find out these sites are on the up and up.. let us know.

I'm grateful to have software that tries to help protect our home PC's.. But not everyone does..

You're right KPW. I tried to open one of them before I saw your warning and I got a Pop up on my computer saying Virus Warning. I guess my Antivirus protection system kicked in and saved me.

I won't do it again.

New Troll / or BOT...

Don't open the links.. to be on the safe side. Seems more like spam now... or combo..

I'll notify Tara..

Yes Thanks For This for this warning even if ths was posted some time way back I am glad you are the way my sister's computer has been rubbubg slow we don't need any viruses on the computer to cause it to crash big tine sice this is the only computer & my sister is picking up where I left off on genealogy where I left off some time back when I hit the brick wall hard J/K. But she was able to find info that I couldn't find when I was working on genealogy 22 years ago.
