I was just looking to see what was on tonight and saw Amazing Race All Stars listed. It looks like it will be really entertaining. Is anybody else planning on watching it?

THanks for the link Tara. I will try to check it out. For some reason this is one show I have never been able to get into. I'm not sure what it is. I watch a little and then get distracted or always seem to find something better to do. I have never been able to stick with it. I have heard it's a great show and has even won some awards. I don't know what it is about this program.

I couldn't get into until the 6th or 7th season. I didn't really watch last season either. I really like the All Start episode last night because I knew who a lot of the teams were from others seasons.

I watched it last night for the first time and enjoyed it. I think it will be a good season...of course I have no past seasons to compare it to.

Is it just on Sunday nights?

Yup tudin.....it's on Sudays. I enjoyed the show.....my kids and I watch it each year. Some years are definitely better than others.

It'll be interesting watching since I have seen all these others before.

My favorite parts of the show are seeing the different cultures/customs incorporated into Racing tasks!!!

Can you believe Rob and Amber went from being in 1st place 3 weeks in row to coming in last and getting kicked off?

I was sorry to see them get voted off... they were fun to watch... though some of their tactics were COLD... LOL.

As usual... if Rob had listened to Amber... they may still be on the show... I remember hearing her say... Rob... you need to know when to let go (of this task) and move on... oh well... hope he learns that she is the brains behind their operation... LOL.

I was glad to see Rob and Amber go...I had enough of those two on Survivor.

I was so glad when the black couple made it to the end that it was a no elimination week. I really like them so far.
