
Jessica\'s pearl ring

Posted by UBERMOM - 2007/11/20 14:09

I just received a message back from Andy, from the show, telling me to try to ask they people on this site if they remember Jessica's pearl ring.

Does anyone remember Jessica's pearl ring? I want to have one made like it and need a better description than what I can give.

I can't say that I do. I'll give it some thought. If I do, I'll post here later.

I don't either. Maybe it was something that wound up on the cutting room floor.

I wouldn't be surprised if they did get her some sort of ring to remember her mother by..

I'd be interested in having my memory jarred or finding out how/and what type of ring setting that might have made it so special. (aside from the fact that it was pearl!) Maybe pearls were her mother's favorite..

Pearls have other connotations so it could have other significances too.

I don't remember it at all either. Did Andy mention anything else about it?

I remember an outdoor ceremony of some kind (before graduation)... Jessica was given some items, but I don't remember what, and I don't remember seeing a ring or a closeup of same.

I wonder if trying to contact Jessica on her myspace page and asking her directly may work.

It was a ring she had on during the show. It was a large pearl next to her finger with the gold/silver wrapped around like it was holding the pearl to her finger.

How would I find her on myspace?

ubermom,

There is an "SO Blogs" area in your menu. That will get you to posts from their My space blogs. I just went there and clicked on the myspace info..

Here is a link directly for you. You still might want to check out some of the other women's blogs.. They are interesting..

If you have myspace, you can probably comment on her current blog and ask a question..
